Reports Of Fierce Pakistan Combat

Army In Control; Heavy Casualties

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Indian press reports today told of fierce fighting and heavy casualties in East Pakistan as army troops battled civilian rebels with artillery, tanks and bombers. Official Pakistani government reports said the army was in full control.

The imposition of censorship in Pakistan made an accurate picture of the situation impossible, and there was no way of determining if the Indian press reports on casualties were true. They quoted "reports from the border."

The Press Trust of India (PTI) said more than 10,000 East Pakistani civilians were killed in fighting Friday. One report told of government machine gunners mowing down 1,500 civilians who charged with daggers and spears.

Radio Pakistan, in an English language broadcast, said today the army was in full control of the situation throughout East Pakistan and that life was fast returning to normal. The radio quoted martial law administrators as saying that reports of fighting in East Pakistan as carried by certain foreign news agencies were completely without foundation.

The leader of the rebel movement for autonomy for East Pakistan, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, went on the radio to deny a government claim that he had been arrested. Radio Pakistan had said Rahman was seized Thursday night at his residence.

Here in New Delhi, there were fears that the strife in East Pakistan might spill over into Indian territory. Premier Indira Gandhi conferred with her cabinet today and lent support to the people of East Pakistan.

"We welcome the democratic action of an entire people who have spoken with one voice," Mrs. Gandhi said in a speech to parliament. "The government is fully alive to the situation and a decision will be taken in time."

India and Pakistan fought a brief war in 1965 over Kashmir, an Indian-controlled state which is claimed by Pakistan.

The rebels, in a broadcast over a seized radio station, said Rahman's followers in Dacca had attacked the home of Lt. Gen. Tikka Khan, the government martial law administrator in East Pakistan and killed him. The radio report also said West Pakistan Air Force planes were bombing civilians in East Pakistan.

Reports from Calcutta in neighboring India said hundreds of East Bengalis fanned out along the Indian border begging for arms.

"We don't want shelter for ourselves or for our mothers and children," one young man told the Press Trust of India. "We want to die a heroic death for the sake of our motherland."

Pakistan Radio had reported Rahman arrested at his home in Dacca but Rahman later went on what his followers called "Free Bengal Radio" and said, "I am as free as the Bangla Desh (Bengali Homeland)." Indian reports said

New Health Department Due Bidding

A sweeping reorganization to bring all of Marin's health and medical services under one department, headed by Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, will be recommended to the board of supervisors Tuesday.

Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator, unveiled the reorganization plan late yesterday. He said the proposed reorganization has the approval of Dr. Cooke, County Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht, and James V. Burdick, veterans service officer.

"It would integrate the Department of Public Health, medical department, community mental health services, county service officer, conservatorships, coroner, public administrator, public guardian, and comprehensive health planning, all under one department," said Campanella. "We believe it will cut costs and provide better service in the long run."

The new Department of Health Care Services would have Dr. Cooke, currently chief of mental health services, medical director and coroner-public administrator, as department head. Directly under him would be two assistants — Dr. John Guerrant, now head of mental health programs and chief of the Community Mental Health Center, as program chief for mental health and Dr. Albrecht as health officer.

Next in the chain of command would be Jay Shinohara, now assistant to Dr. Cooke in mental health services, as chief of administration and planning, Dr. Theodore Hiatt as chief of medical services, and James Burdick as chief of special services.

Campanella said Dr. Albrecht was among those who approved the reorganization plan. He said the reorganization has no connection with last week's recommendation by County Administrator Alan Bruce that Dr. Albrecht be dismissed because of inept management of the health department.

Does this mean that Bruce is withdrawing his recommendation to have Dr. Albrecht fired? "No," said Campanella. "There is no connection between the two."

"This reorganization has been under discussion for about three months," said Campanella. "Everybody agrees that it's a better system than we have now."

Campanella said the reorganization would mean better coordination and less duplication of effort.

He said the Mental Health Advisory Board and the Mental Retardation Coordinating Council could continue in their advisory roles.

Bruce's charges against Dr. Albrecht and two of her subordinates are to be taken up again by the county supervisors on April 13.

Werber Is Seized In Narcotics Raid

Agents of the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau arrested restaurateur Frank N. Werber, 41, and a 17-year-old girl companion yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana, narcotics and dangerous drugs.

Werber, arrested under similar circumstances in October 1968, also was booked into county jail on suspicion of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The arrests resulted from a raid on Werber's plush home on De Silva Island in Richardson Bay shortly before 8 p.m. The agents were armed with a warrant issued by Marin Municipal Court Judge Robert A. Smallman, based on a tip from "a reliable source," agents said.

The officers said they found a pound of what appeared to be marijuana seed and what appeared to be peyote and a narcotic substance in the home, plus what appeared to be a partially smoked marijuana cigarette in a truck parked at the home.

Letters addressed to the girl at Werber's home indicated she was living there. Agents took her to the Juvenile Hall. Authorities there refused to reveal her name today.

Werber was released after $9,375 bail was posted. He is to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

At the time of the raid, Werber was free on $5,000 bail, pending court action on his appeal against a six-month jail sentence and $2,000 fine on a marijuana possession and cultivation conviction after a Marin Superior Court trial in February 1970.

Werber was arrested on state and federal charges Oct. 14, 1968, when two federal agents were led to his home by two men who had brought six seabags packed with marijuana into California from Mexico.

FRANK N. WERBER
Arrested again

Although Werber was acquitted in federal court of importing the seabags, he was convicted in Marin on charges of possessing four kilos of pot found in his home and of having 27 marijuana plants growing in a nearby garden.

By coincidence, Michael H. Metzger, the attorney who prosecuted Werber in the federal case yesterday was freed by Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson, who suppressed as illegally obtained evidence obtained in a drug raid on the attorney's home in Sausalito last year.

Metzger, then a federal prosecutor, now is in private practice.

During the trial, Werber and his attorney, Terence Hallinan, had argued that the owner of the Trident Restaurant in Sausalito and former manager of the Kingston Trio used marijuana as a "religious sacrament." Judge E. Warren McGuire ruled that the claim was not a legal defense.

Auditorium Will Open Sept. 25

Marin's long-awaited Veterans Memorial Auditorium will be ready for public dedication and opening on Sept. 25.

Leon Kalimos, executive director of the auditorium, announced yesterday that the Marin Symphony, conducted by Sandor Salgo, would perform on opening night.

The auditorium, first approved five years ago, will cost nearly $3 million when finished. Until last year, the county had planned a 900-seat facility in hopes a citizen group would raise funds to enlarge the seating to 2,100.

But the citizen group was dissolved when it failed to obtain the funds, and the county took over the task itself of increasing capacity. Thus far this year, the board of supervisors has authorized spending more than $520,000 on the building and its site development.

Kalimos said total cost of the opening would not exceed $31,500. If all seats are sold for the symphony performance, net cost to the county would be $7,750, he estimated. Seats will be sold at $12.50 each.

TURNED-OFF CROWD

Jesus Teach-In Flops

By SANDRA YOUNG

The "tunred-on" generation turned off the teachings of Jesus in favor of rock music yesterday at an event billed as a Christian Music Festival at the College of Marin.

The afternoon session was marked by one minister's refusal to speak to the group of about 200 students, the cancellation of a "Walk for Christ" around campus because of the lack of participation and the heckling of several speakers by students in the crowd.

The festival, sponsored by the Associated Students of the college, was intended to show students that "Jesus is where it's at," according to Jerry Coleman, organizer of the festival.

But the majority of students congregating in the student center came to hear the Thompson Brothers, a country and western rock group, rather than the testimonials of converted drug addicts who said they had "found Christ and were saved."

Students drifted in and out of the area where the festival was taking place, but more than half left when the band turned off the amplifiers and started packing its instruments.

About a dozen students danced to the music, which was interspersed with a few religious-type songs that were more rock than hallelujah. Other young people milled about and dogs roamed freely.

It had all the appearances of a regular jam session— which is one reason Rev. Sherman Moyer of the First Baptist Church of Novato, a scheduled speaker at the festival, walked out halfway through the program without speaking to the crowd.

Reverend Moyer said he was distressed that the students had come to hear the music and not Christ's teachings.

Coleman said he had arranged to have the rock group play for the festival in order to draw more students to the gathering.

One speaker, Rev. Fred Small of Marin City Church of God, described the crucifixion of Christ to the students in modern-day language.

Some of the students became enthusiastic during Reverend Small's talk and he was applauded loudly when he climbed down from the makeshift stage.

Calley Jury Showing Signs Verdict Near

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)— The court-martial jury of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., showing signs of nearing a verdict, took another look today at slide projections of the village of My Lai.

Some of the views were of a dirt trail along which Calley is accused of murdering a group of villagers who were screaming in fear and pain.

Shortly after getting down to work at 8:15 a.m., EST, the jury of combat-experienced officers asked for the project on which they previousiy had been shown 20 slides taken many months after the American infantry sweep into My Lai on March 16, 1968.

The pictures included aerial views of the tiny area of rude huts, two intersecting trails, and a combination irrigation and drainage ditch in which Calley is accused of murdering another group of women, children and old men.

There has been variance in the testimony about the trail murders, and the judge has instructed the jury that if it does not believe the killings occurred near the trail intersection, it must acquit the 27-year-old former platoon leader on that count of the four charges of premeditated murder against him.

Calley is charged with a total of 102 murders.

A sentence of death or life imprisonment would be mandatory if Calley were found guilty of premeditated murder. The jury may reduce the charge to unpremeditated murder, which carries a maximum of life, or to voluntary manslaughter on which Calley could get a maximum of 10 years.

The jury gave some indication Friday that it was heading towards a verdict this weekend. Today was the 11th day of deliberations.

Metzger Drug Case Dismissed By Judge

Felony narcotics charges against attorney Michael H. Metzger of Sausalito were dismissed yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court.

Wilson granted a motion by Metzger's attorneys and ordered suppressed evidence seized in a Dec. 6 raid by narcotics agents on Metzger's home.

The motion was based on grounds the search of Metzger's residence was illegal because the warrant had been obtained improperly.

The basis for that contention was the use by narcotics agents of a paid informer who used a ruse to enter the attorney's home and obtain information on Metzger to justify the warrant for his arrest on suspicion of LSD, marijuana, cocaine and a tear gas weapon.

Testimony during hearings in the case revealed that agents had sent Jerold N. McDonald into Metzger's home the day before the raid on the pretext that McDonald wished to retain Metzger to represent him in connection with criminal charges against him in Marin.

McDonald, of Salt Lake City, was the captain of a gun-laden submarine chaser raided in the Tiburon harbor last July. The charges stemming from that raid against McDonald — who turned out to be a paid informer for the U.S. Customs Service — were dropped four days after the arrest of Metzger.

Prior to quashing the evidence yesterday, Wilson denied a motion by Metzger's attorneys to dismiss the charges on the grounds that his arrest was part of a "witch-hunt" by narcotics agents in retaliation for Metzger's demand that an agent take a lie detector test in a San Mateo County case.

Wilson agreed that the motives for Metzger's arrest appeared to be "other than for finding marijuana in someone's

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Wiretap Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government, in its first disclosure of wiretapping activities since new rules were made public Feb. 26, has admitted it listened in on conversations of one person accused of conspiring to cause riots in Chicago in 1969.

The Justice Department said Friday conversations of Judy Clark, one of 12 persons indicted last April 12 on conspiracy charges growing out of the October, 1969, Chicago Weathermen riots, were monitored "as a result of surveillance authorized on other persons."

It was the first disclosure of government wiretapping since the introduction of Justice Department rules which leave it up to a criminal defendant to find out if he has been illegally overheard by government agents through electronic surveillance.

Dance Verdit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A municipal court jury which was convened in a bar to watch a "dance of love" has convicted nine persons on lewd conduct charges stemming from the nude dance.

The six-man, six-woman jury returned the verdicts Friday, finding the nine guilty on 16 of 33 misdemeanor counts after four days of deliberations.

Pottery Recall

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has announced the recall as a lead poison hazard of two more pottery patterns made by a California firm.

FDA said the new recall involved Poppytrail "Mission Verde" pottery sets and Vernon "Petalburst" dinner and salad plates. Both are made by Metlox Potteries, Inc., Manhattan Beach, Calif.

To Head Home

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI)—Claude L. Fly, 65, of Fort Collins, Colo., the agricultural expert kidnaped and held 208 days by antigovernment Tupamaro guerrillas, was leaving today for the United States.

Fly suffered a heart attack 10 days before he was freed by the Tupamaros March 2. He has recovered sufficiently to go home, British Hospital said Friday.

Fly was abducted Aug. 7, 1970 from his soil laboratory where he was performing research for the Uruguayan government on a private contract.

No Position

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department says it will make no recommendations to a parole board that will review the case of Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa next week.

The eight-member board will consider Hoffa's second request for parole from the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., at its scheduled meeting on Wednesday.

Hoffa was denied parole Oct. 2, 1969 when he first became eligible after serving one third of an eight year term for jury tampering.

POW Aide

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The mother of a U.S. soldier missing in Vietnam almost two years has been named a consultant to the Army for the families of captured and missing servicemen.

Mrs. Ira R. Powers, Washington, D.C., will serve as an adviser to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the army chief of staff. Her son, CWO Lowell S. Powers, has been missing in Vietnam since April 2, 1969.

30-Day Moratorium In Lettuce Dispute

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI)— Cesar Chavez' farm workers began a 30-day moratorium on their nationwide lettuce boycott today after announcement that the union had settled its jurisdictional dispute with the rival Teamsters.

The agreement was announced Friday in Salinas by Chavez, chief of the AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, and by AFLCIO President George Meany in Washington, D.C.

Under the agreement, leaders of both unions will consider which union should represent farm workers in California and their joint decision will be binding.

Chavez said the UFWOC will abide by the decision even if it means his union loses control over the workers. But he said he interprets the agreement to mean the UFWOC will have complete control over "all field workers" in the state.

The boycott against Teamster-handled lettuce was being suspended, he said, so the "growers could show good faith and bargain."

He added, however, that he would call another nationwide boycott if lettuce growers do not accept the unions' joint decision.

Teamsters officials in Washington and at West Coast headquarters in Burlingame, Calif., could not be reached for comment on how the agreement affects their farm workers.

The jurisdictional fight broke out last year when management at Bud Antle Farms in the Salinas Valley refused to end their long-standing agreements with the Teamsters to sign with the UFWOC.

Shortly thereafter, Chavez called the boycott, which was marked by occasional violence, suits and injunctions, and at one point, the jailing of the union leader for refusing to obey a court order.

New Clashes In Major Jordan City

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

New clashes were reported today in the Jordanian city of Irbid in some of the heaviest fighting between King Hussein's troops and Arab guerrillas since the civil war last fall.

"Shooting is still going on inside Irbid and in the area," a military spokesman said.

Hussein's forces sealed off all roads into Irbid, Jordan's second largest city and met motorists with the warning, "Even King Hussein cannot pass here."

Fighting raged through Irbid, 45 miles north of Amman, most of Friday. A Jordanian government statement said three security men were killed and one was wounded. Guerrilla spokesmen said at least four civilians were killed and 15 wounded.

The government said the fighting followed discovery by security men of weapons hidden in a cemetery in violation of agreements between the Palestinian commandoes and the government. The statement said the commandoes then attacked police stations in the area.

Diplomatic sources in Amman suggested the sealing off the Irbid was because of house-to-house searches for weapons.

Reliable commando sources said there were more than 4,000 armed Arab guerrillas in the area.

Military sources said the surrounding of Irbid and military operation there Friday was the most extensive use of troops in Jordan since the civil war.

A Beirut newspaper said, meanwhile, Israel is preparing a large-scale attack on Southern Lebanon. It said it based the report on measures Israeli security forces had taken in northern Israel during the last two weeks.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Raid was in Rome to try to enlist Italian and Yugoslav support for his country's demands that Israel withdraw from conquered Arab lands.

Riad arrived in Rome Friday on the first leg of a European tour to drum up support for Egyptian policy in the Middle East. He was scheduled to visit both Italian Premier Emilio Colombo and President Tito of Yugoslavia, who is in Italy on a state visit.

Two Persons Die In Wild Wind Storm In Seattle Area

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two persons died in the Seattle area in freak accidents as a wild wind storm churned the pacific northwest Friday. Across the continent, a heavy snowstorm unloaded up to 13 inches of snow in the southeast before moving offshore this morning.

The manager of the 12-story Denny Building in Seattle was blown off the roof while trying to anchor down a huge piece of roofing paper in high winds. The manager, Elwood Royston, was killed when he fell, amid flying debris, to the pavement.

In another accident, in Renton, Wash., a motorist was killed when an uprooted tree landed on his car.

The Evergreen Bridge connecting Seattle and suburban Bellevue was closed after 50-mile-an-hour winds damaged delicate mechanisms.

An apartment house roof was carried away in the Spokane area, trees were uprooted and power cut off. Moses Lake schools were dismissed after powerful winds ripped off a portion of one elementary school. Houseboats anchored in Puget Sound were dislodged from their moorings and downtown Seattle was cordoned off because of the danger of downed wires and flying glass and debris.

The National Weather Service in Spokan said winds matched a record set in 1950.

Many East Coast residents had an equally hard time Friday when a snowstorm slicked roads, snapped power lines, and tied up traffic.

Clemson, S.C., victim on the state's first major snowstorm of the season, made up for lost time with 10 inches of snow.

Customers in a suburban Atlanta, Ga., grocery store complained when the electric cash registers lost power and cashiers had to add everything up by hand.

Schools were closed in the western North Carolina highlands because of accumulations of up to 10 inches of snow.

Meadows Flood Control Tax Rate To Go Up

The tax rate for San Rafael Meadows Flood Control District will jump from this year's 29.5 cents to $1 per $100 assessed valuation for 1971-72 fiscal year.

The flood control advisory board, headed by James P. Blum, approved a $37,800 budget for next year, up $17,000 from this year's $20,000. The bulk of the increase is to set aside funds for a master drainage plan for San Rafael Meadows, which will eventually cost about $875,000.

Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer, said the flood control district plans to make the drainage improvements in small portions each year.

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, has announced he will introduce a bill to establish a Redwood Empire Regional Government if Sonoma County residents vote to pull out of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Sen. Collier said he will introduce only a skeleton bill that later could be amended to establish the regional government because the last day to introduce legislation in the 1971 session is April 14, six days before Sonomans vote on ABAG membership.

Warrants Issued In Forgery Case

Bench warrants have been in Marin Municipal Court for James Chalmers Robb, 21, and Diane Francis Robb, 20, both of 95 Medway Road, San Rafael.

Judge Peter Allen Smith set bail on the warrants at $2,500 each when the pair failed to appear Wednesday to plead to a charge of forging a check.

They were arrested Feb. 28 when the manager of a San Rafael market recognized checks they tried to cash as belonging to another customer.

Dishwasher Picketing Due Again

Picketing was set to resume this weekend at Young America Inc. Model Homes in Petaluma as housewives remain angered over malfunctioning dishwashers.

Dinah McGovern, one of the protest organizers, said the second consecutive weekend of picketing was called because no progress has been made in getting the dishwashers replaced. The women have complained that the O'Keefe and Merritt dishwasher sold to them by Young America have not been cleaning as they should.

Michael Densley, regional service manager for O'Keefe and Merritt in Redwood City, was unavailable for comment.

A Young America spokesman said last week that either the dishwashers would be repaired or the homeowners money refunded if the machines still did not work satisfactorily.

Judge Says Unions Must Pay The Costs

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal judge ruled yesterday that three unions found guilty of violating court orders in the printers' strike against the Independent-Journal must pay $21,179 to the National Labor Relations Board for court costs and expenses.

Judge William T. Sweigert earlier found San Francisco Typographical Union 21 and Teamster local 85 of San Francisco and 70 of Oakland guilty of violating an injunction by imposing a secondary boycott against the newspaper's advertisers.

The NLRB had filed charges against the unions last year in connection with the boycott activity, resulting in the conviction by Sweigert.

Judge Sweigert denied yesterday the rights of the I-J, the City of San Rafael and the Food Employers Council, which represents several Marin markets, to present individual claims against the unions at this time.

But the judge informed the three claimants they are elibible to bring separate actions later under a provision of the U.S. Government Code which gives redress to anyone injured by secondary boycotts.

The newspaper is seeking $83,000 in expenses and damages for loss of advertising caused by the boycott and the council is seeking $27,000 in damages for the supermarkets, according to Nathan R. Berke, attorney for the newspaper. He said the city is claiming $25,000 for expenses for extra police duty during the strike.

The three unions already have been ordered by Sweigert to pay $25,000 each for violating his injunction against the boycott activity, which included picketing of markets and vandalism.

Three union officials, Donald Abrams, vice president of the typographical union; James Muniz, of Teamsters Local 70 and Timothy Richardson of Teamsters Local 85, have been placed on one-year probation for their part in the boycott.

U.S. Planes Bomb Key Laos Routes

SAIGON (UPI)—Hundreds of U.S. warplanes, including B52 bombers, ripped Laotian jungles Saturday in stepped-up raids against near-record Communist truck traffic rushing supplies through the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Military sources reported 1,-200-1,500 North Vietnamese vehicles moving over the roads every day in both directions in a Hanoi move to make up for heavy losses inflicted by South Vietnamese forces in their recently ended offensive against the supply trail.

In Saigon, U.S. headquarters announced that three U.S. Army battalions totaling about 2,00 men began standowns Saturday in preparation f

In Saigon, U.S. headquarters announced that three U.S. Army battalions totaling about 2,500 men began standowns Saturday in preparation for return to the United States under President Nixon's withdrawal program. U.S. sources said the successes of the Laos offensive would speed U.S. troop withdrawals.

New Communist pressures were reported in Laos and Cambodia Saturday. North Vietnamese gunners shelled the airport at the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang Saturday and defenders there were reported short of ammunition. In Cambodia, field reports said Communist troops were in firm control of a 10-mile stretch of the highway linng the capital of Phnom Penh to the nation's oil refinery-port of Kompong Som.

Reports on the Communist truck traffic in Laos said the flow normally dwindles to a few hundred vehicles per day at this time of year when the monsoons are beginning. The traffic upsurge was attributed to Hanoi's desire to re-equip at least 16 North Vietnamese battalions totaling 10,000 men which, military sources said, were decimated by the South Vietnamese campaign against the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Jury Ends Another Union Round

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A special federal grand jury investigating San Francisco Typographical Union wocal 21 and its 14-month olf strike against the Independent-Journal apparently has wound up another round of its secret inquiry.
quiry.

After a session Thursday with George Duncan, international representative of the union, the jury instructed several members that it wanted them to appear again at an unspecified date.

Philip Michaels, an attorney in the Justice Department's special "strike force," could not reveal whether Duncan had cooperated or refused to testify before the grand jury.

John J. DeMartini of Mill Valley, vice president of Local 21, and Dennis J. Crowley of San Jose, a Local 21 member, earlier had refused to testify on grounds they might incriminate themselves, according to their counsel, Cecil Poole.

Michaels said last week he might ask a federal court order granting several of the union witnesses immunity from prosecution, which in turn could force the witnesses to answer grand jury questions or face contempt action.

Michaels yesterday said he had not yet asked for such an order. He would not name the individuals for whom he may seek the order.

Four Drunken Driving Sentences

Four persons were sentenced for drunken driving Wednesday by Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court.

Donald Russell Laidley, 38, of 110 Mabry Way, San Rafael, arrested March 20 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $175.

Amos Wade, 52, of 824 E Street, San Rafael, arrested Oct. 18 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay a $150 fine or serve five days in Marin County Jail.

Albert Jose Soria, 45, of 4 Bayview Street, San Rafael, arreted March 20 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay a $200 fine or serve four days in jail.

Richard Earl Brennan, 30, of 111 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, arrested March 20 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and ordered to pay a $200 fine or serve four days in jail.

Pleads Innocent To Two Charges

Mark Edward Terry, 26, of Richmond, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary and credit card forgery.

Corte Madera police said a search of Terry's car produced other stolen credit cards, as well as a stolen typewriter, radio and clothing.

A preliminary hearing has been set for Tuesday for Terry and a codefendant, Ranee Bennett, 19, of San Pablo, who pleaded innocent to identical charges Wednesday.

The pair was arrested Saturday at eh Montgomery Ward store in Corte Madera when Miss Bennett allegedly attempted to use a stolen credit card.

Silver Recovered; Two Suspects Held

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—FBI agents recovered 136 pieces of irreplaceable antique silver, stolen from a palatial Miami museum by three robbers Monday, in a car driven by a 19-year-old youth with shoulder length blond hair near here Friday night.

FBI agents arrested the youth, Edward Smith, a watchman for a construction company, and Randall Mumper, 21, an unemployed mechanic, in the car. The two youths, both of Miami, were held by Newark police on fugitive charges pending their arraignment.

25 Jewish Activists Sentenced To Prison

MOSCOW (UPI) — Twenty-five Jewish activists were sentenced today to imprisonment for from 10 to 15 days on charges of hooliganism.

They were part of a group of 27 men and 12 women who Friday went to the office of the Soviet attorney general to protest the detention without trial in Leningrad since June of about 30 Jews on chartes of conspiracy to hijack a plane.

FIGHT

Rahman was in Chittagong, East Pakistan's principal seaport and reportedly in the hands of the rebels.

The broadcast was heard in Shillong, India.

It was Rahman's declaration Friday that East Pakistan is "sovereign, and an independent republic" that erupted into civil war. President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan immediately denounced Rahman as a traitor and ordered troops to "do their duty to restore the authority of the government."

Pakistan Radio said the situation was under control and that a curfew in Dacca was being lifted. Reports from East Pakistan's nearly 300-mile common border with India said fighting was still raging.

Press Trust of India quoting border reports said the army turned tanks and artillery on the rebels in many areas. The heaviest casualties were reported to have been at Chittagong, where Rahman's Awami League party supporters claimed to have control, including the radio station.

At Jessore, PTI said, more than 1,500 civilians, many clad in sarongs and undershirts, were shot down by army machineguns when the insurgents charged with spears, clubs, axes and daggers in an attempt to capture the airport.

Reports reaching the borders said fighting was still going on today in many towns and cities throughout East Pakistan. The Awami League's so-called "Freedom Fighters" blew up the Bhairab Bridge near Akhaura and destroyed roads and power lines in many places.

A report from Calcutta said the Pakistan Air Force had run low on fuel and had appealed to Burma for help. The report said Burma had assured the Karachi government it would provide aviation fuel.

TEACH

Mill Valley began praying for "all your wretched souls," one group of students, hands clasped together forming a chain, began intoning, "om," a word of great therapeutic and meditative importance in eastern metaphsics.

"Now I'm just loving everybody," he said. "Jesus is a cool dude. He's got long hair and a beard, too."

One student, Reginald Woods, called the festival "a successful failure." It at least brought people together to share ideas, he said.

"People turn on in all kinds of ways," Woods said.

Cindy French, Woods dancing partner at the festival, said she had come to hear the Thompson Brothers.

"I didn't come for the Jesus thing, that's for sure," she declared.

Jail Sentence On Assaulting Police Officer

Richie Dave Hollingsworth, 19, of Novato, was sentenced to 14 days in Marin County jail yesterday for a misdemeanor conviction of assaulting a police officer.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court also placed Hollingsworth on probation for one year.

Hollingsworth originally was charged with two counts of felony assault on a police officer and a misdemeanor count of resisting arrest.

The other charges were dropped in January when he pleaded guilty to the reduced misdemeanor charge.

He was arrested Dec. 19 at a Novato restaurant when he allegedly began banging on a window with a cup. When three California Highway Patrol officers asked him to step outside, the youth struck two of them, officers said.

Three Endorsed For Board

Marin Alternative has announced it will endorse three of the 12 candidates for the April 20 Marin College Board election.

At a special meeting following Wednesday's candidate's night at Olney Hall, 22 members of the political action group's steering committee and organization representatives voted to endorse Frances Compton of Kentfield, Richard Beban of San Rafael, a member of Marin Alternative, and James Kimo Campbell of San Rafael. The latter two have said they are running as a team.

Thomas Thorner, general chairman of Marin Alternative, said that, although there was a fourth seat to be filled on the board, none of the candidates received the action group's endorsement.

Ross Youth Is Science Fair Winner

Tom Alan McMurry of Ross School has been awarded one of seven first prizes at the 18th annual Bay Area Science Fair for his project on "Magnetic Propulsion."

The 13-year-old eighth grade student has devised a pollution-free means of propelling planes, trains and other vehicles, according to his father, Dr. Ralph F. McMurry of 50 Shady Lane.

The model young McMurry prepared for the science fair consisted of a track, two-feet long, in which a line of 25 magnets was imbedded. By energizing the magnets with an electric transformer, a half-inch steel ball bearing could be moved forward or backward at varying speeds.

Dr. McMurry said that his son's idea is based on the principle of the linear accelerator at Stanford University. The same principle, he said, could also be used to catapult planes along a magnetized track into the air for a pollution-free take-off.

For his science fair entry completed in after-school hours, Tom received a blue ribbon, gold medal, a gold cup and a $25 Savings Bond. Fair winners were announced Thursday night in San Francisco.

Tom's project may be seen along with the 320 other Bay Area junior and senior high school student projects from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. through Wednesday at the Academy of Science Building in Golden Gate Park.

Injuries Only Minor; Auto Plunge

Two Marin teen-agers escaped with minor injuries today when a small, foreign-made bus in which they were riding tumbled 500 feet down a steep bank.

The California Highway Patrol said David C. Webb, 19, of 1099 West California Street, Mill Valley, and Susan M. Pomeroy, 18, of 92 Golden Hinde Boulevard, San Rafael, were injured when the vehicle in which they were riding went off Bolinas Ridge Road about two miles north of Ridgecrest Road at 1 a.m.

According to the highway patrol, Webb said that when he swerved to avoid a deer, the car turned over and rolled down the steep grassy slope.

The pair was thrown from the rolling vehicle part of the way down the hill, according to the highway patrol.

Webb, driver of the bus, was treated at Marin General Hospital for scrapes on the back and a cut arm. Miss Pomeroy, though the CHP reported she suffered cuts in the crash. was not reported treated by the hospital.

Coast Guard Calls Off Search

The Coast Guard yesterday abandoned an air and water search of Richardson Bay which began Thursday after a report was received of someone screaming in the water near Kappas Yacht Harbor outside Sausalito.

About 6:20 a.m. yesterday, Sheriff's deputies found a 10-foot rowboat ashore off Seminary Drive on Strawberry Point. Two patrol boats and a Coast Guard helicopter participated in a search, but found no sign of anyone, Coast Guard officials reported.

Residents of the yacht harbor told officers they had seen the rowboat around the harbor, but did not know who owned it. There was no report of anyone missing in the area.

Tate Jury Weighings Punishment Verdicts

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Tate murder trial jury weighed life or death today for Charles Manson and three young women after hearing a chilling account of death in San Quentin's gas chamber.

The case went to the jury late Friday afternoon for verdicts on punishment for the convicted murderers. The only alternatives were death or life imprisonment.

METZGER

possession," but said the motives of the arresting officers were not legal grounds for dismissal.

Testimony at earlier hearings revealed the events leading up to the search warrant and raid.

Alfred Teixeira, a Marin County drug agent, said the warrant was sought after McDonald told agents he had seen a small quantity of marijuana, hashish and cocaine at Metzger's home sometime last April or May.

Teixeira said he first learned of McDonald's information from another drug agent and that he was told by McDonald himself in September.

But it was not until December — shortly after Metzger demanded that state narcotics agent Garrett Van Raam take a lie detector test in a drug case in which Metzger represented the defendant — that the agents acted on McDonald's information.

At the request of Teixeira and Van Raam, McDonald telephoned Metzger about retaining him, and then was sent, "wired for sound," into Metzger's home on Dec. 5.

Based on information allegedly given them then by McDonald, agents obtained the warrant for the raid.

Wilson said yesterday that the entry of McDonald into Metzger's residence was no different than sending a policeman into a citizen's home on the pretext he was a "meter reader."

There is no question, Wilson said, that entry was gained by "fraud and deceit."

Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino said Wilson's ruling would be appealed to the District Court of Appeal "with all possible speed."

Nixon On Working Vacation

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon began a nine-day West Coast visit today during which he is expected to make a comprehensive assessment of the affect of South Vietnamese operations in Laos on future U.S. troop withdrawals.

Although administration officials have publicly praised the performance of the South Vietnamese forces in their 44-day drive to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail in southern Laos, some have privately expressed disappointment that President Nguyen Van Thieu terminated the operation before the onslaught of the rainy season next month.

Before leaving Washington White House sources say President Nixon will announce Monday a plan to impose wage and price controls in the construction industry as a means of attacking inflation.

The plan was urged upon Nixon earlier Friday by Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson. It would set up criteria for wages in the industry and establish a network of review boards across the country to administer them, the sources said.

Accompanying the President here were Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his principal defense adviser, and two senior members of Kissinger's national security staff.

The Laotian operations were considered the first major test of the South Vietnamese army's ability to bear the total brunt of ground combat operations with only U.S. air support.

Youths Treated For Injuries

Two Santa Rosa youths were treated last night at Hillcrest Hospital for injuries received in an auto accident near Petaluma.

Hospital authorities said Francis (Frank) Keefe, 20, of 4048 Sebastopol Road, Santa Rosa, was treated for facial cuts, and his companion, Linda Noble, 20, of the same address, for a leg cut.

California Highway Patrol officers said that Keefe's car, headed north on Highway 101, drifted off the right shoulder about 9:30 p.m. and hit several trees about one-half mile south of Pepper Road.

Sale Of Sewer Bonds Authorized

The San Rafael City Council yesterday authorized the sale of $1,105,000 in sewer bonds aimed at correcting the annual problem of sewage bubbling out of manholes in lower areas of the city during storms.

Meeting in special session, the council decided the bonds, approved by Voters last June, will go to sale April 20, according to Mayor C. Paul Bettini.

IN MEMORIAM

NEECKE, ROBERT P. — In loving memory of my dear husband ROBERT P. NEECKE, who passed away MARCH 28, 1970.

Your heart was truest in all the wide world,
Your love the best to recall.
None on earth can take your place,
You are still the dearest of all.
The beautiful things you did for me,
Live in my heart each day,
And keep you near and dear to me,
Though you have passed away.

mall Lot Concern s Voiced

Concern over small lot sizes a proposed subdivision has en voiced at the Cotati Plan- ng Commission meeting.

The commission held a public earing Thursday on the use ermit request of the Forhim orp. to build four model omes, park facilities and a emporary sales office at its lanned Holiday Park subdivi- ion on East Cotati Avenue.

Some residents questioned he wisdom of permitting lots of ,200 square feet when the sub- ivision ordinance calls for a inimum of 6,000 square feet. ome of the cul de sac lots have rontages of 45 feet.

The commission said it would ait for the return of City Mgr. aul W. Salfen before making a ecision. Salfen is out of town ecause of a death in his fami- y.

Salfen's absence also caused elays on the request of Sil- estre Cervantes for a minor ubdivision of six lots on the est side of Water Road near ierra Avenue and the request f Kenneth D. and Maureen arner for a use permit for a uplex on School Street, west of Maple Street.

Plans For Nicasio Valley Due Hearing

Plans for the first major development in pastoral Nicasio Valley will get another hearing before the Marin County Planning Commission Monday.

Rancher Cirilo Gonzales owns 1,300 acres on the south side of Lucas Valley Road east of Nicasio. He wants to subdivide 164 acres of his ranch, with a 10-acre minimum lot size.

County planners recommend that a master plan be submitted for the entire 1,300 acres, and that minimum lot size should be 20 acres.

The commission will meet all day, beginning at 9 a.m., on the third floor of the Civic Center Administration Building.

Other topics on the morning agenda include Richard Queirolo's request for a land division of his property at 25 Castle Rock Drive, Homestead Valley; neighborhood objections to a home planned at 365 Crown Road in Kent Woodlands and discussion of front and sideyard variances for lots in Wild Horse Valley, West Novato.

Here are the afternoon items:

BOARDWALK — Robert Rhoads wants permission to build on a 4,000-square foot lot at 125 Greenbrae Boardwalk.

ENGLISH PUB — Charles Felix of Muir Beach will present detailed plans for an English pub and restaurant he will build at the entrance to Muir Beach.

MOTORCYCLE — An adjoining property owner will protest the use of the Anita Gambonini ranch for motorcycle riding. The ranch is located on the Marshall-Petaluma Road, about five miles east of Marshall. Benjamin P. Bonelli, who owns the Soule Jule ranch to the south, objects to cycle riding.

RECYCLE — Neill Smith, an architect who is spearheading a recycling program, seeks a permit to open a recycling depot near the Richardson Bay Heliport. The depot will be in a warehouse building, where Smith will recycle paper, cans, bottles and other usable garbage. He also wants to experiment with compost piles that will be odorless and not pollute the bay.

BOLINAS — Leslie and Patricia Bitner Jr., who own seven acres in Bolinas, north of Terrace and Ocean avenues, want a rezoning to minimum one-acre lots. At present, the single-family zoning allows one unit per 7,500 square feet.

TOMALES — Bruce Wendell Beebe, San Francisco architect, will ask for a change in the master plan on his 23-acre Tomales Bay ranch, two miles north of Marshall. He wants permission for a total of eight homes with kitchens, instead of four homes and four guest houses (without kitchen) which he previously requested.

Missing Husband Not Seen Alive

Mrs. Robert L. Hill of Ignacio reported that a story mentioning her husband as having been seen alive in a North Vietnamese prison camp, appearing in last Saturday's Independent-Journal, was incorrect.

Senior Master Sergeant Hill still is listed as missing in action by the Air Force. Neither North Vietnamese authorities nor former prisoners of war have provided the family with any word of his fate, Mrs. Hill said Thursday.

The only Marinite officially listed as a captive in North Vietnam is Air Force Capt. William Butler of San Rafael.

Theft Of Three Autos Reported

Thefts of three vehicles between 9 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. Thursday were reported to San Rafael police.

Police said a cream-colored 1959 Volkswagen, license ZFM-631, was taken from the home of Larry H. Van Trease of 247 C Street and a gold 1964 Volkswagen, license AYK-758, was taken from the used car lot of Felton Volkswagen, 601 East Francisco Boulevard.

James T. Edens Jr. of 149 Novato Street, Apt. 1, told police his 1959 Harley-Davidson Sportster, license 3-A-5989, was stolen from his carport.

Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival Elects Slate

The Mill Valley Fall Arts Festival has elected officers, scheduled a meeting to discuss merger with another Mill Valley arts group and begun planning for the yearly festival.

Officers are Dee Fratus, president; Sarah Devlin, vice president; Len Johnson, treasurer; Tora Garaventa, recording secretary, and Jake L. Gorman, corresponding secretary.

Arts festival members will meet with the Mill Valley Arts Guid Thursday at 8 p.m. at Mill Valley Cityhall to discuss possible merger.

Paul Reiter, outgoing festival president, pointed out that both groups share the goal of establishing a permanent gallery for local exhibition.

At a recent festival meeting, members began planning for the yearly event, which attracted more than 25,000 persons to Old Mill Park last year. The festival usually is held on the second weekend in October but will have to find a new date this year because of conflict with Marin County Fair.

Committees to be formed shortly include publicity, graphics, budget, applications, entertainment, grounds control, physical planning and layout, food booths and membership.

Peace Signs On One Car, House

Vandals painted peace signs on a car and a house in San Rafael Wednesday and Thursday, according to police.

Ellen R. Bartlett of 190 Olive Drive complained to police that a peace symbol and a hand making an obscene gesture were painted on the front porch of her home between 4 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. Thursday.

A peace symbol was painted Wednesday on a front door of a car belonging to Robert A. Maglione of 37 Ridgewood Drive while the car was at his home, police said. Maglione told police it would cost $50 to paint over the symbol.

As centuries have passed the appreciation and value of oriental rugs have continued to rise as it would for any field of art. The Persian Carpet has commonly been referred to as the stocks and bonds of Iran (Persia) and since time began they have proven to be blue chip stocks for those who possess them. The future seems prosperous for those who now own oriental rugs as an investment, since the supply is rapidly decreasing, thereby resulting in increased value created by short supply and high demand.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Harding Republican' Satire Wasn't Appreciated By Many

DEAR HELEN:

I got a great kick out of "Harding Republican" and his satire on the "rights of Responsible Elements to Birch-whip sniveling little ingrates who practice freedom of speech." As you say — the ghost of Jonathan Swift is tap dancing on his typewriter.

How many people didn't catch on to his leg-pulling? — HARDY DEMOCRAT

DEAR DEM:

Many!!! Here's a sample:

DEAR HELEN:

This letter is for our old friend, Harding Republican.

Before we start heaving the heavy stuff, we want him to know we are not all bombing and revolution fanatics, not all drug addicts and not all vicious little sex-crazed devils running around with grenades in our pockets.

A lot of us think that war and prejudice are wrong, cops are not pigs, and Nixon tries harder than some people we know (even though some of us aren't exactly Agnewstics.)

We also think that everyone deserves his free speech, oral or written, whether he's young, old, black, white, green or purple.

Now the charges: First H. R. tried to take away the "obnoxious little prig's" freedom on speech, guaranteed him by law. Then he suggested he be "thrashed within an inch of his life" (child-beating is a No-No). Last, he talked about the "rights of Responsible Elements" as if only long-haired hippie types should be busted for smoking pot, while adults in high places should be allowed that privilege.

I'd say the system (or Establishment) is in a sorry mess, and it's the Harding Republicans of the world that keep it that way — MORE "SNIVELING LITTLE INGRATES" (Nine signatures

DEAR SNIVS:

A good letter, but misdirected.

Get thee to a library and read Jonathan Swift's "A Modest Proposal." Harding Republican is on your side, kids. It's time you studied up on satire. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Today I learned that all the schools in our county are against the girls' wearing hot pants.

Honest, Helen, what's immoral about shorts (as one principal had the nerve to say)?

Of course there are a lot of girls who would say, "If we could wear hotpants, why not regular shorts?" And that would lead to problems, as there is a big difference between the new style and just any old shorts — as far as I can see, anyway. — HOT PANTS LOVER

DEAR HPL:

(Occurs to me that a year ago your signature would have been censored in family newspapers. How times — and meanings — change.)

"As far as eye can see" is the big difference between hotpants and just any old shorts, isn't it? They're considerably briefer, therefore more controversial. My prediction: they'll make it in a few California schools this spring, but not in your conservative state. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Woman Commands Cadets

By KAY CHRISTENSEN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— Susan Ann Orkins says she is not a women's lib advocate, but merely wants "to do my own thing." That just happens to be commander of the 600 Air Force ROTC cadets at Ohio State University.

Miss Orkins, 23, became the first female in the nation to command ROTC cadets last January when she was selected colonel by the OSU commandant of cadets.

The selection did not come out of the blue. Miss Orkins had committed herself to a minimum of four years duty in the Air Force last fall when she signed her commission at Ohio State.

"YOUR DUTY to your country means your duty to your fellow man," said Miss Orkins. "And you can choose to do that through the Peace Corps, social work or just being a good citizen. I chose to do my duty through the military to protect our nation and help other nations."

Miss Orkins, a shapely five feet six inches and a former "Miss Lawrenceville, Pa.," conceded that a woman must try harder to succeed in the so-called man's world.

"I'm not a women's lib advocate," she said. "It's up to the individual to prove his worth. Everybody has to do his own thing.

"I think I've shown girls—women my own age—that do go into ROTC that it's possible to achieve a commander's position."

Miss Orkins, who was born in Colorado Springs, Colo., and grew up in the small town of Tioga, Pa., started her college career at Ohio Northern University in Ada, Ohio. She dropped out after two years, worked as a hospital technician, then enrolled at Ohio State. She is a major in biological sciences and maintains a 3.4 grade average.

Miss Orkins said she had to do a lot of talking to defend ROTC during last spring's outbursts of student unrest. "I did try to understand what was going on," she said. But no participation of her in any "mob scenes" because she felt such action accomplished nothing.

In an interview she expressed the thought that the United States "overextended" in the Vietnam war. "But it is not a senseless war," she said. "We're trying to help other nations try to stand on their feet."

PEOPLE, SHE feels, are becomming more concerned about moral problems. "I think there is some good coming about because of this strife and I think it will bring a more unified country in the end," she said.

Miss Orkins is engaged to Joel Coats, 22, a doctoral candidate at the University of Illinois. They are to be married June 12, one day after she receives her commission and graduates.

And how does her future husband regard the prospect of marrying an ROTC colonel?

"One reason he respects me is because I'm an individual," she said. "It makes us more compatible as husband and wife because it makes us both interested beyond ourselves."

SUSAN ANN Orkins is the first woman in the nation to command ROTC cadets. Since January, when she was selected by the Ohio State University Commandant of Cadets, she has been commander of the 600 Air Force ROTC cadets at the university in Columbus, Ohio. There she is "Colonel Orkins." She will spend four years with the Air Force. (UPI Telephoto)

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

Wash Cotton And Polyester Knits Before Cutting Out

By EUNICE FARMER

A few weeks ago I suggested you wash and dry your cotton knits before you cut them out. This prevents any shrinkage which could result in very unhappy results after your hard work when you find your garment stretching in one direction and actually shrinking in another. Since my advice, I have heard from many readers who suggest that all washable polyester, cotton, and any combination knits that are washable, be washed before cutting.

Many of you who have felt that polyester thread causes a wax build-up in the sewing machine and causes the machine to skip stitches should also wash the polyester knits before beginning to sew. This will remove the fabric finishes that apparently cause the trouble to which you are referring.

Since the world of knits is so completely new for the home seamstress, please feel free to write to me. I studied knits very extensively and hope to be able to answer all of your questions conecerning any problem that may occur. We would also like to have you share any of the little tricks that have made polyesters easier for you to work with. This new fiber will play a very important part in the future of all of our clothing, so let's work together on it.

MRS. DAVID D. York, Louisville, Ky., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board — winner for her following sewing hint.

"No matter how I insert elastic in a tubing for pants or pajamas, it always gets twisted and turned. I finally found a way to keep it from turning and thought your readers might lika to know about it. After finishing the top of the pants, even out the gathers at the waist. Stitch through the entire thickness of the elastic and the casing at all four seams. Do this vertically in the center of each seam. You may stitch up and down several times. You will hardly see this stitching and if the elastic still persists in turning, it will only turn for a short distance. It works for me!"

IF YOU'RE getting out last summer's cottons and find they are too short, you might consider adding a strip of see-through heavy cotton lace to the lower edge of your dress. In this way you won't have to take out the old hem, and the lace edging (preferably the Venice type) will have enough body to hang correctly. You will assimilate the same look that became a trademark of the famous Lilly dresses that originated in Florida. You can usually find this type of edging in almost any width necessary. I think you'll be delighted with the results.

DEAR EUNICE,

All of a sudden I see small covered buttons and lots of loops instead of the conventional buttonholes. Do the loops have to actually be functional and also, should cording be used in the loops?

MRS. E. M.

DEAR MRS. E.M.:

Many garments do have the loops and small round buttons, either covered with the same fabric or decorative. They can be left open to whatever length you wish if they march down the skirt and the same could apply to the bodice. They can be functional in this respect.

If you don't want to open all of them since they are usually placed very close together, you make them look as if they were the only closing and then insert a center back zipper closing.

Yes, we usually use a fine cording or string as a filler for the loops. They keep their shape much better. If you don't know how to make the loops, send 10 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper. The leaflet you need is called "Spaghetti Straps and Chinese Ball Buttons", and it is simple to follow with step by step instructions.

Susan E. Wells Becomes The Bride of Richard D. Hageman

Maid of honor for Sue was Leslie Bowman of San Rafael, and the bridesmaids were Barbara Leon, Lauren Wilson and Linda Mannella, all of Fairfax, and Sue Nelsen of Menlo Park.

Gary Pfaff of Fairfax was best man. Seating the guests were Tom Hickerson of Sonoma, Steve Miller of San Anselmo, Mark Bernel of Novato and Morey Nelsen of Menlo Park.

A reception was held afterward at the Meadow Club. After a wedding trip to Hawaii the couple will live in San Francisco.

Sue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wells of Fairfax. She is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and the College of Marin's vocational nursing program, and she is a licensed vocation nurse employed by Drs. Abel, Friedman and Hoversten in Greenbrae.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hageman of San Anselmo are Dick's parents. He also is a graduate of Drake High School and the College of Marin and received a degree in business from Sacramento State College.

Computer Fitting

Instead of fitting each of 1,000 stewardesses individually for a new uniform, a major airlines took sample measurements of 150 and computerized the tailoring of new uniforms, including fake tigerskin coats and hats. The sample group fell into three basic sizes — tiny, typical, and tall. Most girls slipped into the perfectly fitted uniforms. The uniforms that didn't fit just right were altered in a matter of hours.

Port Meat

Next to beef, pork is the most popular meat to come to the American table. We eat about 65 pounds of it a year.

Reason For Hampered Activities

Activities of the Marin Human Rights Department are hampered by constant pressure from the county administrator's office because it demands justification for even minor expense items, it was charged yesterday.

Human Rights Commissioner Anthony Medrano and a former commissioner, Rev. Francis Geddes, made the remarks in testimony before a fact-finding committee trying to determine how the human rights department and the police-community relations program can be operated most effectively.

Geddes complained that the human rights department had to justify each little expense item. "We're constantly hassled by the administrator . . . it was a constant fire fight between the administrator and human rights. One of the reasons I left the commission was because of this constant fight."

Medrano said he felt frustrated because there are so many current human rights issues in which the human rights commission is not involved.

"The Sausalito school thing, the long-hair issue, a teacher threatened by the right wind — we should have been right in there. But the commission has been notably absent because it was none of our business," he said.

Medrano said the commission was told not to get involved until it was invited, and it never got invited.

The witness also told the fact-finders that better pay and more staff are needed in the human rights department.

The commission's budget request for 1971-72 totals $83,000, more than double this year's $35,000. The request calls for the executive directors salary to be raised to $16,000 per year. Donald Curt Moody, the last director who resigned in January, was drawing $12,000 per year.

The fact-finding committee, headed by chairman Milen C. Dempster, will meet again at 2:30 p.m. Monday in Room 332 at the Civic Center to continue its investigation.

AND 'ABRACADABRA' TOO

By PAT ANGLE

With a flick of the fingers and an "abracadabra," 15-year-old Clifford Raisbeck of Sausalito can pluck wonderful things from a mysterious empty box or raise a spirit from under a charmed scarf.

The personable teen-ager's interest in the magic arts began when he was 6 years old and an older friend showed him a few tricks. He began by giving shows for family and friends and has branched out to productions for children's parties, women's clubs and even an occasional fraternal organization.

Like most magicians worth their magic wands, Clifford carefully guards the secrets of his trade, many of which have been passed down for thousands of years. "I like to work with secrets and I like to keep them to myself," he smiled. "It's fun to trick people and watch their expressions."

While others his age do their thing at coffee houses or other hangouts, Clifford haunts magic shops, fascinated by their stock of mystery.

"When you buy a trick, you are really buying a secret," he said. "The materials you get are often cheap and of poor quality and you may have to improvise and make your tools."

Magic is much more than just a matter of nimble fingers, as Clifford has learned. In addition to practicing physical techniques, the able magician also must develop an engaging "patter," a story which sets the mood for each trick.

"In a way it's like a course in public speaking," he explained. "My magic has increased my ability to get up and say what I want before a group of people."

Magic tricks are quite expensive, he said. They start at about $3 for the simpler ones and run as high as hundreds of dollars. The most spectacular device Clifford has ever seen was a $500 trick guillotine.

Despite the fact many tricks have their origins in the mists of the remote past, he said many new ones are being developed all the time as new materials, such as plastics, become available.

"One trick I really liked (but couldn't afford since it cost $110) was a clear plexiglass box tied with a ribbon," Clifford said. "When you take off the ribbon, the box is suddenly full of live doves."

His favorite tricks are those involving floating astral bodies. "A person lying on a table is covered with a blanket, then floats around the room and disappears when the magician whips away the blanket. It's great to watch."

Despite his keen interest in the art, Clifford does not think he will make a career of magic and noted that professional magicians are fairly rare these days.

Times have changed, he said, from the days when Houdini was an international celebrity and hundreds of magicians astonished audiences in theaters across the country.

"For one thing, people don't want their children to grow up to be magicians," he laughed.

A freshman at Deerfield Academy in Massachusetts and the son of a San Francisco orthopedic surgeon, Clifford of 31 Grand Avenue, feels drawn toward science and surgery as possible vocations, but is not quite ready to commit himself to either. He also is interested in music and has made several experimental films. He particularly likes to work with his hands ("the hands is a remarkable piece of machinery"), a trait which should stand him in good stead in magic or surgery.

But he plans to keep on with his magic as a hobby and to go on to better and more complex tricks, even if he uses them only to entertain friends at parties.

"Magic is fun from both sides of the spotlight," he said with enthusiasm. "It's really fun to do and fun for the audience. I'd miss it a lot if I had to give it up."

Donation Drop For Indians

Persons interested in donating canned food, medicine, candles or firewood to the Alcatraz Indians may drop off items at the collection point at San Francisco Pier 40, Gerda Welden of San Anselmo, a volunteer worker, said.

The collection point is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Sunday.

She said persons unable to transport the goods to San Francisco may leave them — excepting firewood — at her home at 980 San Anselmo Avenue.

Snow-Belt Loss

NEW YORK (UPI)—The economic toll that one winter could take from the business community of a snow-belt city if it didn't have effective ice and-snow-removal procedures would run to tens of millions of dollars, according to studies conducted in Detroit.

Three File Papers In Petaluma

Three men filed candidacy papers yesterday for the June 8 Petaluma municipal election.

William A. Perry Jr., 59, a druggist, filed nomination papers for a four-year term on the city council. Perry currently serves on the city planning commission and the Petaluma Hospital District Board of Directors.

Richard W. Clecak, 29, filed for a two-year term on the city council. Clecak teaches physical education and history at Petaluma Senior High School and coaches several sports.

Earl W. (Bill) Schneider, manager of the Petaluma branch of the Bank of America, filed for election to the Petaluma Hospital board. Schneider served as chairman of the city-wide citizens finance committee for the city council.

Three four-year terms and a two-year term for the city council will be up for election, as well as two seats on the hospital board and two seats on the Petaluma Board of Education.

New Advisory Slate Selected

David E. Bordon has been elected chairman and John W. Schiffeler, vice chairman, of the Tiburon Peninsula Advisory Committee for 1971.

Two Scouts, Leader Honored By Church

Two Marin County Boy Scouts and a scout leader have been presented awards for their work in the Roman Catholic Church.

The scouts, Brian J. Bluth and Michael McKernan, were presented the Church and Scout Ad Altare Dei Award for distinguished service to the church.

Brian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bluth of 18 Stanton Way, Mill Valley. Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. McKernan of 21 Sharilyn Lane, Novato.

Scout leader Albert J. Schoenfeld of 372 Miller Creek Road, San Rafael, was given the St. George award for his contribution to the spiritual development of Catholic youth. He is scout executive for the Tamal District of the Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America.

Weather Disrupts Marin's Schedule

Rain has caused two changes in the College of Marin home baseball schedule, both games involving Camino Norte Conference foes.

The Tars' game against Contra J.C. of San Pablo last Thursday has been changed to Monday and today's scheduled game against Santa Rosa Junior College has been switched to April 19. Both games will start at 3 p.m.

Reservations For Desert Trip

Reservations are being taken for a Carson Valley desert trip during Easter vacation which is being sponsored by the Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science, according to Lloyd Smalley, instructor for the outing.

Plans are for a group of young persons to leave in the museum's van on April 5 and return April 9. They will camp, hike, study nature and explore ghost towns, according to Smalley.

Pot Smoking Protester Is Given Stiff Jail Sentence

VISALIA (UPI)—A woman who smoked a marijuana cigarette in the district attorney's office as a protest was sentenced to six months in jail and two years probation yesterday by a judge who declared "calculating violations of the law cannot go unpunished."

Mrs. Marge Sponsler, 39, a former member of the Tulare County Grand Jury and a member of the County Drug Abuse Committee, was led off to jail after Superior Court Judge Robert D. Carter denied a motion that she serve her sentence on weekends.

Carter, of Modesto, was brought in to hear the case after Tulare County judges disqualified themselves.

"Frankly this court is fed up with psychiatrists, social workers and others who give aid and comfort to the drug culture which seeks to destroy the youth of this country," he said.

The sentence was indeterminate, meaning that Mrs. Sponsler could be released earlier than six months on good behavior.

She pleaded guilty to possession and use of marijuana charges stemming from a Jan. 21 incident in which she took a couple of puffs off a hand-rolled marijuana cigarette in the district attorney's office.

At the time she told newsmen she was protesting the "complete disregard that our legal system has displayed for the rights and needs of the individual and I was not condoning the illegal use of marijuana."

The smoking incident occurred after another judge refused to release her son-in-law, Steve Adams, 23, from jail after he had served seven months of a one-year term for narcotics violations.

He had asked to be released to go back to college and was freed several weeks later.

Noting that Adams had been convicted of selling LSD, Carter said the court has committeed 16 and 17 year olds to mental institutions as "maniacs" for taking LSD.

MANAGEMENT TRAINEE

LEADER OF MEN

- Do you understand the difference between pushing and leading?
- Do you have the guts to back your convictions?
- Are you willing to accept immediate responsibility?

We need an ambitious, take-charge kind of individual who is looking for the sure, but hazardous road to management. Our Operations Manager needs as assistant to whom he plans to delegate all possible responsibility.

If you have a degree, one to four years experience (preferably in public contact or supervision) and enjoy working in a man's world, you had better call us.

You will be offered an opportunity to join a young and progressive management team in San Rafael dedicated to developing people. Good starting salary plus full range of benefits.

Signs Point To Teacher Halt Spread

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Signs pointed today to a possible spread of the school strike which has already forced half-day sessions in secondary schools, caused mounting student absence, kept over 1400 teachers off the job.

Directors of the Classroom Teachers Association, which had previously boycotted the walkout by the rival American Federation of Teachers (AFT) Local 61, voted Friday to put the strike issue to their rank and file in a vote on Tuesday.

The CTA board's unanimous decision came after a city school board official told a bargaining committee that teacher demands for smaller classes, broader health care coverage, and other changes could not be met.

The CTA has a membership of 2500. The AFT, which called its strike Wednesday, has roughtly 1800 members, of which all but about 400 are off the job. AFT representatives joined bargaining negotiations for the first time Friday, but their presence meant little in the face of the school district's stance.

Meanwhile, absenteeism rose to a record 31,000 Friday in the strike's third day.

Skull Is Fractured In Car Leap

A woman hitchhiker, who said she leaped from a speeding pickup truck yesterday to avoid being raped, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Novato General Hospital with a skull fracture and a concussion.

The California Highway Patrol said Lisa M. Smith, 21, of San Francisco, told officers she jumped from the truck about 2 p.m. on Route 37 near the Lakeville turnoff, although the truck was traveling about 50 miles per hour.

She told the highway patrol a man picked her up when she was hitchhiking from San Francisco to Sausalito, but refused to let her out until she had made love to him.

She said the man was driving a red and white Ford pickup truck with a statue of a horse on the hood, according to the highway patrol. The man was described as about 6 feet tall, in his late 30s, with brown hair and dressed like a cowboy.

THE WELFARE FUSS

Finance Boss Says Court's Ruling Wipes Out Surplus

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — State Finance Director Verne Orr says a California Supreme Court decision paving the way for increased grants to families on relief wipes out a newly discovered $25 million welfare surplus.

He reported Friday that prior to the court's ruling, the Reagan Administration had made no plans on how to spend the unanticipated sum but now the court seemed to have decided the issue.

"I think they took care of our surplus," Orr said of the decision signed by all seven justices of the court Thursday in what was a major setback for Gov. Ronald Reagan's attempts to restrict welfare spending.

The apparent surplus is indicated in a complex table of figures detailing welfare caseload estimates and expenditures. The table was included in Gov. Ronald Reagan's 180-page welfare reform message sent the legislature March 3.

The figures show that last year the State Department of Social Welfare overestimated the rate at which welfare grants would be increased. The estimates were made in August and December.

The first estimates forecast welfare costing $714,280,600 in state funds but the revised estimate lowers the figure to $689,079,500, a difference of $25.2 million.

Additionally, there would be a projected savings of $389,000 to the counties and $27.2 million to the federal government for a grand total forecast surplus of $52.8 million.

Rough figures compiled by both the Social Welfare Department and legislative budget experts Friday showed that the court's ruling would cost an extra $21.5 million in state funds for the nine-month October through June period affected by the decision.

Orr, responding to newsmen's questions, said he had not studied the decision and had only "preliminary" figures on which to base his assessment.

But he said he assumed the impact of the decision "will be greater than $25 million and it will consume this (state) surplus."

He added, "I can't believe that we'll get off with such a small increase" and noted that the projected surplus and the estimated additional cost resulting from the court case "will be a pretty good match."

The court ruled illegal the method proposed by the Reagan Administration to reduce welfare grants to certain recipients in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children Program (AFDC) without legislative approval.

But the court said the administration had the authority on its own to increase grants in the AFDC program by 21.4 per cent to satisfy federal law requiring maximum payment levels to reflect increases in the cost of living.

Acting under a federal court order, the officials administratively provided for grant increases to an estimated 400,000 families but proposed to reduce other grants on a percentage rate.

The regulations were adopted so that California would conform to federal law and not lose $700 million in federal aid. But the court said the administration couldn't make grant reductions without the legislature's endorsement.

In response to a question, Orr said no firm decisions had been made on how the estimated $25 million would be spent in advance of the court ruling pending outcome of a review now under way to double-check the accuracy of the caseload estimates.

But he did say the court's action had the effect of ruling out possible use of $10 million to finance a bill to rescind some of the cuts Reagan made in the Medi-Cal program to avert a deficit. He said the author, Assemblyman Gordon Duffy, R-Hayward, had discussed the possible use of such funds with him.

A PITCH TO TOURISTS — The venerable Westminster Abbey — one of England's cherished institutions — is giving itself the full publicity treatment to cash in on the tourist trade. Coming shortly will be vending machines, longer opening hours and multi-lingual marshals.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

Pop-Star Publicity Treatment

By KENNETH JOACHIM
Toronto Telegram News Service

LONDON — Britain's most majestic church, the venerable Westminister Abbey, is giving itself the full pop-star publicity treatment to cash in on the tourist trade.

Vending machines, longer opening hours, non-stop touring, and multi-lingual marshals to help visitors, are among coming attractions advertised by the Abbey — where England's Kings and Queens have been crowned and solemn state ceremonies performed for the past 900 years.

In the same pop-style vein, the Abbey announced these and other happenings in a news release under strident headlines reading: "Big speed-up at Westminister Abbey" . . . "Over five million visitors this year" . . ."Girl marshals to help crowds" . . . "Non-stop tours."

While Britons blinked and rubbed their eyes, Westminster Abbey's dean, Very Rev. Eric Abbott — who's certainly got the name for the job — calmly served up another stunner.

To preserve the Abbey as a church of worship while at the same time promoting it as Britain's No. 1 tourist attraction, he revealed that an organization and Methods Survey had been commissioned last year to study and improve "traffic flows through the building to see what could be done to ease congestion."

What on earth — or anywhere else — has come over the Dean and Chapter of Britain's most aristocratic national memorial hard by the houses of Parliament?

The answer is astonishingly simple. It seems that Westminster Abbey, for all its magnificent tradition, is subject to some very modern ailments categorized as "inflation of wages and salaries" . . . "reduced satisfaction of worshippers and sightseers" . . . and problems concerning "morale and working conditions of Abbey staff."

And they've decided that modern ailments require modern treatment.

So the Abbey, now second only to Trafalgar Square in the foreign tourists' popularity poll, it setting out to attract even more visitors and make the extra revenue do some good all round.

According to the Dean, more than five million overseas people are expected to visit the Abbey this year, and the figure could rise to a staggering eight million by 1975.

While this is heavenly news for the accountants, it presents problems for the staff. At peak periods during summer months, for instance, numbers going through the Abbey at one time can be as many as 3,000.

It's not so bad at the main entrance (which is eight feet wide) but visitors going through the Royal Chapels have to squeeze through an 18-inch gap, causing acute traffic congestion.

Hence the survey of traffic flows in the building, improved traffic lanes and parking areas outside, and appeals to travel agents and tour operators to spread the arrival of conducted parties over a greater part of the day.

Hence, too, the longer opening hours this year — till 6 p.m. every day and 8 p.m. Wednesdays (summer and winter) and greater floor space to be provided by reducing the number of rows of chairs in the nave and transepts.

With less congestion, there will be less disturbance to worshippers.

To keep the tourists happy, there will be multi-lingual marshals and guides, new signs and notices and leaflets in English, French, German, Spanish, Italian, Dutch, Danish, and Swedish.

As well, Japanese vending machines will dispense guidebooks and postcards, and there will be an information desk and control point linked by telephone to the Abbey's public address system.

The sometime Christian slogan that God helps those who help themselves applies particularly to Westminster Abbey, which, for all its close connections with the Monarchy and establishment, is outside diocesan control and therefore required to be self-supporting.

The more visitors it attracts, the more wear and tear on the Abbey — not to mention the aforesaid afflictions like inflation and overworked staff.

To pay its bills and meet the extra expenses incurred by this year's innovations, the Dean and Chapter are abolishing the free day on Fridays for visitors to the Royal Chapels. For those who cannot afford to, or on principle refuse to pay an entry fee, the Chapels will be open to them on Wednesday evenings.

There will also be what are described as "more positive notices" attached to collecting boxes and possibly newly-designed boxes which are "more easily seen."

Whatever the changes, one thing certain is that visitors will continue to flock to Westminster Abbey — whatever the reason for its magnetism, be it history, crowned heads and coronets, or the sheer beauty of the building. Which has come to be called: "The parish church of the English-speaking world."

SPIRITUAL REVOLUTION

Young 'Jesus People' Are Still Turned On To Cause

LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

They are young. They are hip. They like long hair and rock music. Some of them wear beards, bluejeans, headbands and dark glasses. They are trying to foment a revolution.

Are they Communists? Anarchists? Far from it. To use their own term, they are "Jesus people." Their goal and slogan is "spiritual revolution now."

Last month, more than 7,000 of them gathered in Sacramento, and marched on the state capitol, singing "Amazing Grace" and waving placards which proclaimed that "Jesus is where it's at."

Richard Weaver, 25, who organized the Sacramento rally, told the crowd, "What we're seeing today is happening all over America."

"This is a counter-movement to the drug thing, the hate thing and all the other things tearing America apart," he said. "Some of us are hippies and some are straights, but we're all Jesus people."

No one knows how many of America's young people are actively or peripherally involved in what Weaver calls "the Jesus underground." This movement is gloriously unstructured and unorganized. But the available evidence corroborates Weaver's statement that it's "happening all over America."

It is happening, for example, in Houston, Texas, where a far-sighted Baptist pastor has demonstrated that churches can abet the youth movement instead of looking askance at it.

For the past five months, the First Baptist Church of Houston has been conducting what it calls "spireno" meetings. Spireno is an acronym for "spiritual revolution now." The meetings are conducted by Richard Hogue, a long-haired, sharply-dressed, with-it young preacher who looks and talks like what he very recently was —a student.

Although he uses the idiom of today's youth, Hogue's pitch is straight-forward, undiluted Biblical Christianity with a strong fundamentalist flavor. His talks are interrupted by explosive outbursts of applause, cheers and cries of "right on!"

Since "spireno" began last October, nearly 5,000 young people, mostly in the middle or late teens, have professed their faith in Jesus and have committed their lives to his service.

Rev. John Bisagno, pastor of First Baptist Church, is convinced that the "Jesus movement" is not a passing fad among young people.

"I've received many phone calls from parents —including some who say they're atheists —who are pleased and amazed at changes that have occurred in the lives of their children," he said. "I am certain that this movement is under the influence of the Holy Spirit."

The Jesus movement offers a great evangelistic opportunity for churches if —as Hogue puts it — they are flexible enough to adapt to the kids, to accept the kids as they are, and present Christ to them."

But it should be borne firmly in mind that it's Jesus himself —not the conventions and rituals of institutionalized religion —that has such a powerful appeal to today's youth.

Any attempt by churches to capture and tame the Jesus movement would be a dreadful mistake. But, it might be a wonderful thing if the Jesus people would invade churches and set them afire with their joyous enthusiasm.

Churches Asked To Join In Self-Study Project

GENEVA (LWF) — Lutheran World Federation member churches are being asked to launch self-studies of their own situations in the context of the challenge of socialism in various cultural backgrounds.

Described as the first phase of a long-range study, the request for church participation has been issued by the LWF Department of Studies, which is charged with implementing an action of the federation's Fifth Assembly last summer at Evian les Bains, France.

The Assembly asked for investigation of the problem of dialogue with Marxists, with particular reference to the question of China.

Commenting on the task, studies director Ulrich Duchrow said that "the merging of different forms of socialism with a variety of cultural traditions constitutes a specific challenge for all who are concerned with the human problems in their own societies."

He noted that more than one-third of the world's population lives in socialist societies of one form or another.

Through regional and international consultations and coordination and interchange of information, the German theologian said it is hoped that the study eventually can contribute to a "mutual orientation" in the approach to problems in various parts of the world.

The overall study, he said, will focus on immediate problems such as those related to development, youth, education and modernization, which will be dealt with against the background of fundamental questions of ideology and faith.

As an initial step in preparation of the project, the study director recently called together in Geneva a group of experts on East Asia. The project also will be among main discussion items at the Commission on Studies meeting in Geneva on April 19-24, and a second consultation will take place in Tokyo in connection with the April 29-May 4 international consultation being sponsored by the LWF Department of Church Cooperation.

At the recent Geneva consultation, Dr. Duchrow reported, some participants challenged the concept of engaging only in dialogue with Marxists as insufficient if the project is supposed to come to terms with the ideological phenomenon of the different "Marxist models," especially in East Asia. They emphasized the "involvement of people in relevant action" as the only meaningful approach to a genuine self-study process.

French Cardinal Villot's Pontiff Stock Is Climbing

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Roman Catholic Church has not had a non-Italian pontiff since 1523, but the next one could be a Frenchman.

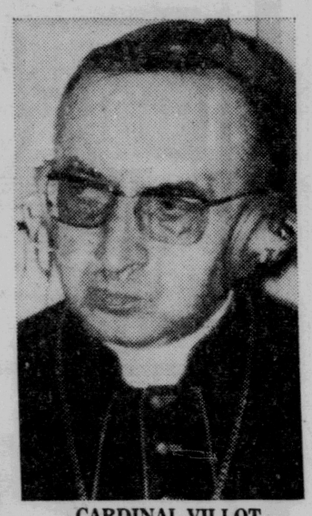
Pope Paul VI clearly raised the possibility by naming French Cardinal Jean Villot as his secretary of state —the Vatican's number two post —in May 1969.

The 65-year-old Villot's stock as "papabile" —papal material —shot up last October when Paul named him camerlengo or papal chamberlain. This means Villot would temporarily rule the church when the Pope dies, and obviously would be high on the list of candidates for the papacy.

Villot exemplifies the strong French influence at the Vatican.

For centuries, ever since the popes were French and lived at Avignon, there has been rivalry between French and Italians in the curia —the church's central government —although all the popes have been Italian since the death in 1523 of Dutch pontiff Hadrian VI.

On occasion, however, the papacy has been subjected to



CARDINAL VILLOT
Stock climbing

French domination or tutelage to the extent of Pope Pius VI being imprisoned and taken to France by troops of Napoleon Bonaparte in 1798.

Now the French influence at the Vatican grows in a more peaceful manner.

The Pope himself is a Francophile, a lover of French literature and an admirer and translator of lay theologian Jacques Maritain. He was for nine years archbishop of Milan, which in many ways is closer to French thought than Italian. His spiritual adviser during last year's Lenten period was a French former worker priest, the Rev. Jacques Loew, who once worked as a longshoreman in the port of Marseilles. The Pope's private secretary, Msgr. Pasquale Maachi, is a former professor of French literature.

Some Vaticanists talk of a "French curia" of far greater importance than the German advisers who Pope Pius XII liked to have at his court.

As well as Villot, there are 10 other French cardinals — including Gabriel Marie Garrone, head of the Vatican department for Christian education, which is in charge of seminaries around the world.

The French bloc comes second only to the Italian, which counts 38 cardinals.

Under a new law barring cardinals over 80 from participating in papal elections or holding high Vatican appointments, the number of effective Italian cardinals will be reduced to 25 in 1971 while the French contingent will decline to eight. However, Vatican sources expect the Pope to name new cardinals within the next few months.

One of the Pope's closest advisers is Bishop Jacques Martin, head of the papal household, who organizes the Pontiff's trips abroad. The Pope took the rare step of naming him bishop during his visit to the Holy Land in January 1964.

Archbishop Giovanni Benelli, Villot's deputy as undersecretary of state, is solidly in the French mold. He studied at the French seminary in Rome and served as a papal diplomat to the United Nations Educational and Social Council (UNESCO) in Paris.

Two Special Services To Be Held

At the 10 a.m. service Margo Jones will dance a meditation with the musical setting by Harriet and Gary Carter, folk musicians.

Sermon topic by Rev. Frank Evans will be "Rainbows Over the Rain," based on poetry by Robinson Jeffers. It will be the concluding sermon in the Lenten series on "The Meaning of the Master."

At 5:30 p.m., the church will celebrate "Blue Lupine at Sunset," featuring music and poetry. The Carters will provide special music and poet Margaret Albanese will present readings.

Those attending are requested to bring wine, cheese, fruit and French bread.

Sermon Topic For Tomorrow Is Told

"The Glory of Jesus's Death" is the sermon topic for vesper services at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow by Rev. Armin Keibel, to members of the Church of the Living Word, a Marin mission of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod.

Services are currently being held at the home of B. J. Marggraf, 364 Mountain View Avenue, San Rafael.

Vivaldi's 'Gloria'

Vivaldi's "Gloria" will be presented tomorrow at the 10 a.m. worship service at St. Luke Presbyterian Church on South San Pedro Road in San Rafael.

Both are members of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

Optional Celibacy Not Supported

PHOENIX (UPI) — Five southwestern Roman Catholic bishops, while giving general approval to a National Federation of Priests Councils proposal, do not favor optional celibacy for priests, Bishop Edward McCarthy said this week.

Bishop McCarthy said news statements, following a three-day meeting of the five bishops in Tucson, were misleading as to the position of the bishops on the celibacy question.

EASTER RITES WILL BE CARRIED

Special Easter Week services, including Good Friday, Easter Eve and Easter Sunday, will be carried on next week's church page.

Churches with special services should have their information in to the editor of the church page by noon next Wednesday.

BUS FLEET CENTER

Negotiations Ordered For Site

The Golden Gate Bridge District's attorney has been ordered to begin immediate negotiations with owners of land in Corte Madera and East San Rafael to make one of the sites the headquarters for maintaining the district's bus fleet.

Bridge district directors approved the negotiations yesterday. They acted on priorities suggested by the staff and seconded by the directors' transportation committee after a hearing and closed session Thursday.

The district's first choice, if the price is right, will be a 12-acre parcel south of Corte Madera Creek east of Highway 101 — the so-called Heerdt and Holtzinger properties.

Second choice is a 10.3-acre parcel near the San Rafael Post Office, on Sims and Dodie streets.

Third choice is the 6.9-acre Heerdt property alone, without the adjoining Holtzinger land.

District transportation director Donald White said if the San Rafael property could be "ready to go by Nov. 1" in terms of assessment district work and other formalities, he would favor changing it from second to top priority. The owners have offered a two-year option to buy 15 additional acres at the site.

The transportation committee dropped consideration of several other suggested sites: The Motor Movies in San Rafael, the Windt parcel adjoining the San Rafael sewage treatment plant and the quarry portion of the Hutchinson property — which is still in the running as a site for the district's Central Marin ferry terminal.

During Thursday's committee discussion, Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis stressed that 60 per cent of the county's commute traffic originates in the San Rafael-Ross Valley-Mill Valley area, and questioned whether the bus facility should not be associated with a Central Marin ferryboat terminal.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said that the industrial nature of the bus facility might detract from the pleasant, recreational "atmosphere we're trying to get for the ferry terminal."

Real Estate man Ben Ostlind unsuccessfully argued the merits of the Motor Movie site, stressing that it was closest to traffic interchanges on Highway 101 and thus would lessen "deadhead" runs for buses. Planner Norman Gilroy of Mill Valley asked the committee to consider using the quarry, but was told that staff studies indicated it would require expensive, multilevel construction.

No prices were made public at either the committee hearing nor yesterday's brief, routine discussion by the full bridge board.

Transit manager White said the district's fleet of buses will be delivered in November, requiring creation of a facility of about 10 acres. Future expansion may require a total of 25 acres, he said. The district also will need "satellite" facilities in Novato and Sanra Rosa for minor bus maintenance and parking, he said.

Feeder Ferry Bus Patronage Said Up

Patronage on feeder buses to the Sausalito ferry is booming, and a fifth bus may be added to the service, Golden Gate Bridge District officials reported yesterday.

A total of 7,467 passengers were carried on the buses during the first 15 weekdays of March, a 23 per cent jump from the 6,079 during the first 15 weekdays in February, Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring told district directors.

He said that Transit Mgr. Donald White was studying whether to add another bus, but no action was taken on his report pending White's findings.

Luehring said that the district's Marinship parking lot has shown an increase in use, with an average of up to 130 cars using it each day.

Golden Gate Bridge District Board also:

PLAZA — Approved a $275,000 contract with Parsons, Brinkerhoff, Quade and Douglas for final engineering on a $4.5 million project to carry southbound traffic around the toll plaza on a new bypass freeway.

BIDS — Announced bids on the district's commuter bus fleet will be opened at 2:30 p.m. on April 27.

PUBLIC RELATIONS — Hired the San Francisco public relations firm of Arnold and Palmer and Noble as consultants at a maximum fee of $6,000 plus expenses each three months.

FURNITURE — Discontinued purchase of furniture through the state on the ground that small local businesses were unable to compete for state contracts. Local businesses will bid on district contracts in the future.

LABOR — Agreed to postpone up to six months replacement of suspender ropes to avoid possible work stoppages during pending labor negotiations in the Bay Area.

CHARTER — Authorized District Engineer Robert E. Shields to charter as many buses as he can fill with patrons from commuter clubs. The district has been subsidizing a "club bus" to the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco, and has agreed to subsidize each such bus up to $500 a month.

Novato Jaycees Elect President

Worth (Skip) Fenner Jr. of 2351 Dominic Drive, associated with the Fenner Insurance Co., last night has been elected president of the Novato Jaycees.

Fenner, who has served as internal vice president during the past year, will succeed Robert K. Madgett.

Tom G. Senior was elected internal vice president; Raymond Nielsen, external vice president; Capt. Joseph Corfield, secretary; and Jeff Cornish, treasurer.

Officers will be installed April 30 at the Cloud Five restaurant, Novato.

401st Cosmos Probe Fired By Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today launched number 401 in its Cosmos series of artificial earth satellites, the news agency Tass said.

Tass said Cosmos 401 had an initial orbit period of 89.6 minutes and an orbital inclination of 72.9 degrees. The maximum distance from the earth's surface was 200 miles and the minimum distance was 134 miles.

5.3 Acres Deeded For Nature Use

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, yesterday reported that the federal government had agreed to give 5.3 acres in the Tiburon hills to Marin as an addition to thecounty's Tiburon Upland Nature Preserve.

The county tried for two years to acquire the surplus portion of the former naval net depot, and the board of supervisors at one time had $15,000 budgeted for the purchase under a law that allowed such transfers at half the appraised value.

The supervisors, however, subsequently changed their minds, and the county dropped its pursuit of the parcel until Congress last year passed a law allowing such transfers at no cost to local government.

The General Services Administration had the parcel up for public sale when officials of the county and City of Tiburon discovered the new law could be used to get it. The GSA appraised the parcel at $30,000.

The county's existing preserve has 18 acres.

Same Plea In Robbery Case

Earl Sam Bouttie, 23, of Oakland, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of assault with a deadly weapon and robbery.

He and his brother, Anthony Bouttie, 21, who pleaded innocent to identical charges Wednesday, werearrested Tuesday when a Novato policeman saw them beating an Ignacio service station attendant.

Preliminary hearing for the pair was set for Tuesday.

Youth Fined In Glass Breaking

I-J Special Report

VALLEJO — A Redwood City youth, arrested last year for smashing the window of an Independent-Journal delivery truck, has been fined $125 and ordered to pay $75 restitution in Vallejo Municipal Court.

Bruce Bauer, who was arrested after the Jan. 17, 1970 union rally at the I-J plant in San Rafael, also was placed on probation for a year Thursday by Judge William E. Jensen.

He was one of more than 500 union sympathizers who joined striking printers from San Francisco Typographical Union 21 and formed a human chain that ringed the newspaper.

Charge Out On Illegal Search

A charge of possessing peyote against Robert Allen LaSalle, 28, of no known adress, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Peter Allen Smith dismissed the charge Wednesday when the district attorney's office reported that a search of LaSalle when he was arrested March 17 was illegal.

He was arrested when San Anselmo police investigated a trespassing complaint after he set up a tent on private property near 259 Redwood Road.

Five "buttons" of the suspected drug were found in his knapsack, according to police.

Novato Favored To Win Prep Baseball Title

By DAVID EINSTEIN

If the Novato and Drake high school baseball teams get the impression they're looking at each other's familiar faces next Tuesday, it'll be because they are, and for that reason they are the favorites this year in the Marin County Athletic League.

The Hornets and Pirates, who lost just one and two players respectively from their 1970 rosters, clash in San Anselmo in the feature game of opening day in the MCAL. San Rafael hosts Tamalpais of Mill Valley at Albert Park, Redwood entertains Terra Linda in Larkspur, and San Marin is at home in Novato against Marin Catholic of Kentfield. All games start at 4 p.m.

Novato more than Drake, and both of them more than anyone else are, on paper at least, the strongest clubs in the league, the only ones who seem capable of running away with things. But the rest of the league is so well balanced that in case neither of them pulls away from the crowd, all six other teams have a shot at the title. And ironically, the club with perhaps the least chance to win is Redwood, the team that took the championship last year with a 12 - 2 record.

Novato's strength is no secret. All the MCAL coaches see the Hornets as out-and-out favorites. That's because coach Bob Aune can put exactly the same nine players on the field that finished third in the MCAL last year with an 8 - 6 record.

Six players who received all-league honors last season give the black and gold machine class on top of experience. Topping the list are pitcher-outfielder Dave Judnick, both of whom were named to the 1970 all-league second team. Catcher Dennis Stanley, pitcher Mike Lamb, third baseman Randy Jackson and shortstop John Kidder all received honorable mention. All are seniors with the exception of Busher and Lamb, who are juniors.

The other returning starters for the Hornets are all seniors — first baseman Steve Pond, second baseman Mike Corder, outfielder Art Herrnberger and pitcher Jeff deRecat.

Novato's only problem, but one that could spell the difference between becoming champions or also-rans, is that Judnick, a flame throwing lefthander, has a bad elbow that has prevented him from pitching. Aune plans to rest him until after Easter, and then see what happens. In the meantime, deRecat and Lamb are the team's top pitchers.

The Drake Pirates can almost match Novato's experience, with a starting lineup that includes seven lettermen. The San Anselmo team finished last in the MCAL in 1970 with a 2 - 12 record, but the same personnel pulled a sensational turnabout by winning the Joe DiMaggio summer league, and this year in the preseason the Pirates have been tough.

The veterans on the club include shortstop Steve Hale, first baseman Dave MacAusland, catcher Mike Baughman, third baseman Cap Purcell, pitcher Lex Rzepelia and outfielders Damien Casalnuovo, Tom Odetto and Mark Shepherd. All are seniors.

The Pirates should be improved by the presence of several players up from the junior varsity. The star among them is pitcher-outfielder John Billings, a junior who coach Dick Creighton believes could be the team's top hitter. Other newcomers are junior shortstop Dave DeMoss, senior second baseman Jit Singh, and infielder Alan Curtiss, a transfer from Santa Monica.

The only experienced man on the Redwood roster is pitcher John Moresco, and his experience consists of about four innings toward the end of last year. The Giants lost everyone else, including three players who were first team all-league.

But there is plenty of experience and know-how on the bench in the person of coach Al Endriss, and if anyone can turn a rebuilding year into a winning one, he can. Only two seniors, Moresco and first baseman Bob Gorman, grace the starting lineup; Endriss plans to go with three juniors and three sophomores and hope for the best.

One of the sophs, Gene Frey, could be the best young pitcher in the league, and Endriss is very high on him. Owing to his fine work in the preseason, the righthanded Frey is Redwood's

A PERFECT AFTERNOON FOR COLLEGE OF MARIN NETTERS

College of Marin shutout Skyline Junior College of San Bruno in Kentfield yesterday for the second time this year in a Camino Norte Conference tennis match. Among the Tars who were victorious in the 9-0 romp were (from left), Andy Giddings, who won, 6-2, 6-1; and Greg Calis and Tim Morgan, who each posted 6-1, 6-1 triumphs. Ben Ostlind, Phil Hoehn and Paul Wolf also won their matches as Marin ran its 1971 record to 3-4.

NBA PLAYOFFS

Bulls Have Hand On Panic Button

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

Dick Motta hasn't pushed the panic button yet but you can bet he has his finger on it.

Motta, whose Chicago Bulls were cast as a slight favorite to oust Los Angeles' injury-riddled Lakers from the National Basketball Association playoffs, saw his club drop to 0-2 in the best-of-seven series Friday night when the Lakers won 105-95.

Baltimore beat Philadelphia 119-107 Friday night to even their series at 1-1 while in tonight's action, New York looks to stretch its lead to 2-0 over Atlanta and Milwaukee opens its series with San Francisco at Oakland.

Gail Goodrich scored 10 consecutive points in the last 4½ minutes to crack open a close game and boost the Lakers past Chicago.

"The way we played tonight, I don't think I want to come back to Los Angeles," said Motta. "We're not going to panic yet but if we lose one in Chicago, then we'll probably have to have a new lineup out there. If we lose there we might as well start thinking about next year."

The Bulls were listed as slight favorites since the Lakers are without star guard Jerry West and veteran Elgin Baylor, both out for the season with injuries. The Lakers had lost 8-of-11 games when West was forced out by injury.

Los Angeles rallied from a 17-point deficit Wednesday night to take the opener and stunned the bulls again Friday night. Chicago has yet to break the 100-point mark in either game.

"We were forced out of our pattern by (Wilt) Chamberlain," said Motta. "And the Lakers moved the ball like they owned it. If it hadn't been for Jim Fox and Bob Love, we would have been beaten by 40 points. Everyone else was dead."

Love had 34 points and Fox 17 for the Bulls. Chamberlain had 26 points for the Lakers and Jim McMillian, playing in place of West, had his second straight impressive playoff game, scoring 24 points.

"We played a very tough defense," said Laker coach Joe Mullaney. "They are a very efficient club and we had to disrupt their pattern."

Baltimore turned in a well-balanced performance, getting a total of 75 points from Kevin Loughery, Jack Marin and Earl Monroe, to even its series with the 76ers. Monroe, who was ill and slightly injured in Baltimore's opening loss to Philadelphia, and Marin had 24 each and Loughery was high man with 27 points. Archie Clark led the 76ers with 26.

"Monroe took complete control of the game from the outset," said Bullets' coach Gene Shue. "He gave us a big lift when he showed he could play. He was an inspiration. Marin and Loughery really helped us. I'm hopeful we're back in shape."

Warriors' Dream Impossible?

OAKLAND (UPI) — The San Francisco Warriors begin their "impossible dream" effort tonight — overcoming the Milwaukee Bucks in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Warriors, second-place finishers in the Pacific division, host the first game of the playoff series at Oakland Coliseum, 8 o'clock.

The Bucks, who won the central division, are the most powerful team in the NBA and dominated almost every team in the league, including the Warriors (6-0).

Not only do the Bucks have Lew Alcindor, the NBA's most valuable player, but they also boast four other starters who averaged in double figures.

Warriors' coach Al Attles had hinted he might use a different defensive alignment against the Bucks, like putting Clyde Lee instead of Bob Portman on Bob Dandridge.

But Attles' announced starting lineup indicates there won't be anything new — Nate Thurmond will be against Alcindor, Fritz Williams on Oscar Robertson, and Jeff Mullins on Jon McGlocklin.

All Track Meets Are Washed Out

All Marin County Athletic League track and field meets were postponed yesterday due to poor field conditions, and two have been definitely rescheduled for next week.

Tamalpais and Terra Linda high schools will make up their washed out meet next Tuesday, at whichever school has the driest facilities. And Novato will host San Rafael Wednesday. Both meets start at 4 p.m.

Also washed out but not as yet rescheduled were Marin Catholic vs. Redwood and Drake vs. San Marin.

MIAMI GOLF

'Windy' Trevino Holds Advantage

MIAMI (UPI)—The rest of them may complain about the wind that has whipped the National Airlines Open golf tournament, but not Lee Trevino. He says he's a wind baby.

"I was born playing in the wind. I've been playing in the wind all my life. I hope it keeps blowing the next two days and then my chances will be pretty good," said the dark-haired Mexican-American out of El Paso, Tex., where he learned that the winds sweeping the southwestern flatlands are a way of life.

"Then I'll only have the little man in black to beat," he said. He meant Gary Player, the South African who has played in all sorts of conditions winning the world's major tournaments. He favors dark attire.

Trevino may get his wish. The weatherman forecast 25-mile-an-hour winds for today's third round of the $200,000 event, and said they may veer from southwest to north—which could bring smoke from smoldering Everglades fires over the course.

Trevino, defending champion here, and Player, seeking a second consecutive victory after his win in the Jacksonville Open last week, were among six tied for the lead with an eight-under-par total of 136 at the halfway point. Trevino had a three-under-par 69 in the Friday round and Player shot 67, and said it was "as fine a round of golf as I am capable of playing."

With them were veteran touring pros Charles Coody of Prairie Creek, Ark., with a 66, and Australian Bruce Crampton with a 68; first-round leader Jerry Heard of Visalia, Calif., with a 70, and 24-year-old Hubert Green of Birmingham, Ala., who fired his way into the contenders with a seven-under-par 65.

Green, a slender Florida State University graduate and former Southern Amateur champion, had eight birdies and a bogey, and so did 22-year-old South African Bobby Cole, who also had a 65 for the second round of his first American start since last October. But Cole had a 73 in the opening round and was tied at 138 with Frank Beard.

At 137 were Australia's Bruce Devlin, who had 69 Friday, and Dan Sikes, who had 68.

Among those at 139 were Arnold Palmer, with a 69 in the second round, and Dow Finsterwald, with 71.

The field was cut below 145 after the second round and among those who didn't make it into the last two rounds were tour veterans Tommy Bolt, Gardner Dickinson and Chi Chi Rodriguez.

Stewart Is Ontario Favorite

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)— There doesn't seem to be much doubt. Scotland's Jackie Stewart should have the pole position for Sunday's $288,900 Questor Grand Prix.

The 31-year-old former world Grand Prix champion with the shoulder length hair was the top qualifier over Ontario's 3.2-mile road course again Friday.

Driving a Tyrrell Cosworth Ford, Stewart averaged 113.590 miles per hour for one lap in the second of three days of qualifying. He averaged 111.526 Thursday.

The race —actually two 100-mile tests — has been billed as a match between Europe's Formula I cars and America's Formula A machines. It doesn't look like much of a competition.

The first seven qualifiers after Friday's runs were Formula I cars. Sam Posey of Sharon, Conn., was the top Formula A driver in eighth.

The No. 2 qualifier was Jacky Ickx of Belgium in a Ferrari 312B with an average speed of 111.578 followed by Jo Siffert of Switzerland.

MARIN BOWLING

Two Men Enjoy Memorable Week

For Ron Baccei and Mike Baker it was a bowling week to remember.

Baccei, a carpenter by trade, ripped off series scores of 675, 659 and 658 in three Country Club Bowl (San Rafael) leagues the past week. His 659 series was topped by a 298 game, all strikes but the last ball.

Baker does his bowling at Greenbrae Lanes and also had three scores in the week's top five — 664, 652 and 632.

High score of the week came from Dan Burke, a 729 (259-236-234) at Country Club.

Headlining the Country Club scores for the women were Sylvia Asay and Penny Tauscher. Sylvia rolled games of 233, 199 and 225 for a 657 series and Penny rolled a 275 game and 635 set. For her 275 Penny rolled five straight strikes, a seven-count spare, five more strikes and finished with eight count.

At Greenbrae Lanes, Ann Piggot finished in grand style her last week of bowling before moving to Orinda. Secretary of the Hits and Misses League, Ann rolled a 647 series her last week in the league.

Redwood Crew Team Takes First Loss

Redwood High School's newly organized crew team took its first loss of the year yesterday, bowing to Berkeley High, 4-0 at Berkeley Aquatic Park. The Giants, who defeated Oakland Tech last week in their season opener, came close to the Yellowjackets in only one race, the varsity lightweight contest. John Broderick, Steve Barber, Max Agafan, Dan Thomas and David Kimelman combined to finish within three lengths of a polished Berkeley crew.

BACK A FEW YEARS — George Gustafson, (right) Tamalpais High School athletic director who is retiring at the end of the school year, shows off one of the school's trophies to incoming athletic director Al Ahlsten. That trophy in Gustafson's hands goes gack to 1922 when it was presented to Tam by the San Rafael Municipal Pool swimming champs.

Swimming Records Topple

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—NCAA swimmers continued their assault on the record books Friday night at the swimming and diving championships as two more American records fell.

After Friday night, a total of five American and NCAA meet records had been set at the tournament held at Iowa State University's Beyer Hall pool.

Indiana's Gary Hall set his second American record when he raced to a 3:58.2 in the 400-yard individual medley. Hall, who broke his own NCAA meet record in the preliminaries, became the tournament's first double winner. He won the 200-yard individual medley in American record time Thursday.

Southern California successfully defended its 800-yard freestyle relay title and in the process shaved 8 seconds off its own American record set in 1970 with a 6:52.4 clocking. The Trojan quartet was sparked by Jim McConica, who also nabbed an individual title in the 200-yard freestyle.

Indiana, which had set an NCAA meet record in the preliminaries, was disqualified after finishing second in the finals. Officials said the Hoosiers' John Kinsella jumped into the pool to congratulate his teammates before all squads had finished swimming.

"Any time you beat Indiana's champions, it's a sweet victory," said McConica. All Trojan swimmers felt their team had won a major victory by keeping close to the three-time defending champion Hoosiers.

USC, which finished second in team standings last year, held on to the same spot after the first two days of competition, trailing Indiana's 239 points by 74.

Further Tests In Store For Heavyweight Champ

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cloverlay Inc., which owns the contract of Joe Frazier, says it will have the heavyweight champion undergo further tests with another doctor after he is released from St. Luke's Children's Hospital in Philadelphia today.

Horse Racing

Baseball

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—George Sisler Jr., president of the International League, and Hank Peters, director of player personnel for the Cleveland Indians, were named Friday as candidates to succeed retiring Phil Piton as president of the minor leagues.

A screening committee nominated the two. Each league will cast a vote for Piton's successor in May.

Football

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Linebacker Bill Cody, a member of the Saints since they joined the National Football Leaguein 1967, has been traded to the Minnesota Vikings for an undisclosed future raft choice.

Mays, Mac Homer; Stone Stars

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — A pair of veterans and a rookie pitcher combined Friday to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 4-2 victory over San Diego Padres.

Willie Mays and Willie McCovey blasted back-to-back homers in the first inning to give the Giants an early 3-0 lead.

The margin was all Steve Stone and southpaw Ron Byrant needed. Stone, the impressive rookie who figures to be in the Giants' starting rotation, hurled six innings, allowing only two hits, one of them a two-run homer.

Bryant took over after Stone's departure and blanked the Padres.

May's homer, his third of the exhibition season, came after a lead-off single by Chris Speier. McCovey then followed with a solo blast over the rightfield fence, his fourth in the preseason games.

The giants added another run in the seventh on two doubles by McCovey and Alan Gallagher.

The win improved the Giants' Cactus League record to 13-9. San Francisco meets the California Angels today in another warm-up contest.

San Rafael, Redwood Swim Teams Triumph

The Redwood High School swim team coasted by the Drake Pirates, 78-17, in San Anselmo yesterday, ending the first round-robin in the 1971 Marin County Athletic League season.

In another meet in the MCAL, San Rafael defeated San Marin 52-43 at San Rafael.

The Redwood Giants improved their won-lost record to 5-1 on the season, moving into Tuesday's title showdown with the undefeated Terra Linda Trojans one game out of the MCAL lead.

The Trojans are heavily favored to defeat the Giants, on the strength of their opening day 61-34 win. However, Trojan Coach Bob Pollitt is aware of the possibility of an upset like last year, when Redwood came back to knock off Terra Linda in the second round-robin, avenging an early season defeat.

Yesterday, the Giants won every event against the Pirates, with Paul Cane, Brian Hennessy and freshman Spencer Eldred taking double wins.

San Rafael just got by San Marin on the scoreboard, but the meet in reality was no contest as Bulldogg coach Bill Ranney withheld his top stars from their specialty events. Wolf Kristenson led the victory with wins in the 200 yard individual medley and the 100 free, while Jay Woods was a double winner for the Mustangs, taking the 50 free and the 100 fly.

Terra Linda and Novato were both idle yesterday.

Marin Catholic Defeats Cadets In Prep Tennis

The Redwood High School tennis team dropped its second preseason match of 1971 yesterday, losing to phenomenal Woodside High School, 7-0, while Marin Catholic won its fifth in a row against San Rafael Military Academy, 5-0.

The Marin Wildcats didn't even bring their top three players, and still crushed SRMA. Kevin Waltz took the No. 1 singles match while only losing one game to pace Marin Catholic.

Redwood was hampered with the loss of Gary Walter, a top player, who is down with mononucleosis.

The Marin County Athletic League season starts Tuesday, with Redwood and Marin Catholic figured to battle it out for the MCAL crown. This confrontation will be held April 13 at the College of Marin.

A CHANGING OF THE GUARD

Ahlsten New Athletic Director At Tam, Will Succeed Gustafson

Al Ahlsten, veteran coach and physical education teacher at Tamalpais High School, will take over as athletic director next school year, it was announced yesterday.

Ahlsten will be starting his 15th year at the Mill Valley school next September when his appointment becomes effective. He will be replacing George Gustafson, dean of Marin County coaches who has announced his retirement effective the close of the school year in June.

Baseball coach for the past six years, Ahlsten will continue to head the varsity baseball program at Tam.

"The student athlete has changed and we, as a coaching staff, are changing with the times," he said about his program as head of the school's athletic department. "Our coaches had better get with it."

A graduate of Ohio State University, Ahlsten has also coached Class B basketball, freshman, junior varisty and varsity football at Tam.

The 46-year-old Ahlsten had coached football and track at Norwalk, Bellflower, and Whittier high schools in Southern California before going to Tam.

Drake Main Challenger To Novato In Baseball

other front line pitcher besides Moresco.

San Marin, which finished second last season at 11 - 3, looks to be pretty strong again this year, with five returners, including 1970 all-league catcher Jack Burnam, and second team all&league outfielder Jim Thompson. Junior shortstop Marty Larsen, senior first baseman Tim Bowen and junior pitcher-outfielder Greg Mazeres are the Mustangs' other lettermen.

A couple of juniors up from the junior varsity, Ken Siler and Jim Learch, should help to bolster the pitching staff, which has Mazeres as its only veteran.

Besides Burnam, only one other all-league first team player is back in the MCAL this year, and anyone who has followed Terra Linda sports knows its "gotta" be Larry Kerr. The MCAL's football player of the year, and a second team all-league choice in basketball, Kerr will lead the Trojans on the diamond from his position at first base.

Three more all-league vote getters (all seniors), second team pitcher Scott Seefeldt, honorable mention third baseman Jim Cottington and honorable mention outfielder Bill Berry, give the Trojans an above average foundation, and six other returning players give them some depth. Paramount among them are outfielders Bill Sherbert, a senior, and Rick Trono, a junior.

Tamalpais, the team that tied Novato and Terra Linda for third place last season, brings back five players, including outfielder Clifford Hall, who made honorable mention as a sophomore. The other veterans are three seniors — pitcher Mike Johnson, catcher Bill Rudolph and third baseman Leiv Lea — and a junior pitcher Mark Dawson.

Johnson could be the key to a highly successful season for the Indians. He missed most of last year with a bad arm, but pitched well in the summer. Another player returning from an injury that kept him out last season is outfielder Bill Washington.

San Rafael, while not endowed with many lettermen, has an overabundance of talent and depth. All four of the Bulldogs' returners were starters last year, and that helps. The brightest star among them is centerfielder Dirk Gansloser, who, like Tam's Hall, was given honorable mention last year as a sophomore.

Third baseman Jim Thorne, pitcher Mike Spezzi and catcher Gary Nelson, all seniors, are the other returnees and will provide a steadying influence for the newcomers.

The question mark for the Bulldogs is pitching, but three players up from the junior varsity may help. They are juniors Steve Rohrs and John Klingler and senior Ray Griffin.

Finally, but of course not least, there is Marin Catholic, which finished tied for last with Drake in 1970. Don't count on that happening again; the Wildcats have six players back, including a couple of top-flight pitchers.

Mickey Simmons threw only one game last year when he was brought up from the J.V. late in the season. The then sophomore righthander lost a nine-inning game, 2 - 1 and has been improving ever since. On the other hand, the Wildcats have a pitcher in Tom Olson who will be starting his fourth year on the varsity. Olson plays a high-caliber third base when he's not on the mound.

Other returnees for Marin Catholic include Don Bianchini, a jack of all trades who has played six positions so far in the preseason, shortstop Steve Sherry, first baseman Mickey Hurley and outfielder Pete Arbios. All are juniors. Other juniors up from the junior varsity who have nailed down starting spots are catcher Paul Riccardi, first baseman Scott Cozza and outfielder Chuck Lauderback.

San Rafael In Tennis Loss

Pete Neuwald and Steve Sockolov combined for a doubles victory, but the rest of San Rafael High School's tennis team did not fare as well and dropped a non league match to Washington High of San Francisco yesterday, 3½ - 1½ at San Rafael.

Washington 3½, San Rafael 1½
Singles — Greg D'Archambeau (W) d. Mark Altamirano, 6-0, 6-0; John McConnell (W) d. Dave Bacon, 6-3, 6-1; Hugh Winslow (w) d. Don Goldbeck, 8-6, 7-5.
Doubles — Pete Neuwald and Steve Sockolov (SR) d. Stacy Bloom and Dan Dickinson, 5-7, 8-6, 6-2; Conrad Sovig and Spike Harry (SR), Minoru Awabayashi and AlanFong (W) - tie.

Tam Star Top Prep Performer In Track

Gerald Robertson of Tamalpais High School scored the top marks in three events, including a Marin County Athletic League record for the high jump, and two other stars dominated two events each in the first round of the league's 1971 track and field season.

Chakra Chappell of San Marin High ran faster than anyone else in the MCAL both in the 440 and 880 yard runs, while Mike Arago a teammate of Robertson's, led all performers in the mile and two mile.

Robertson, a senior, ran the high hurdles in 15.3 and the low hurdles in 20.5 as Tam bopped Drake in the opening round Mar. 19. He followed those efforts by topping his own MCAL high jump mark of 6 feet, 4 inches with a leap of 6-5¼.

Dennis Kuwatani of Redwood took the lead in the triple jump, a new event this year in the league, with a combined distance of 41 feet.

Best performances recorded so far this season:

100 yard dash - Al Schlette (Tamalpais), 10.3; 120 high hurdles - Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 15.3; 180 low hurdles - Gerald Robertson (Tamalpais), 20.5; 220 yard dash - Paul Crovo (San Rafael), 23.0; 440 yard run - Chakra Chappell (San Marin), 51.9; 880 yard run - Chakra Chappell (San Marin), 1:57.5; Mile run - Mike Arago (Tamalpais), 4:30.6; 2 mile run - Mike Arago (Tamalpais), 9:39.7;

Frazier Delays Stateline Show

The new dates are May 6-8. It was the second delay in the performance by Frazier, who is under contract to appear at King's Castle with his group, The Knockouts, before any other engagement.

King's Castle officials said they were informed by Frazier's camp that "the champ did have a kidney ailment prior to the fight with Muhammad Ali, known as 'athlete's kidney'' and must rest for the next 30 days.

Redwood's Cane Top Swimmer

The three top Marin County Athletic League swimming schools — Terra Linda, Redwood and Novato — dominate the list of 1971 best times at the halfway mark of the league season.

Redwood's Paul Cane leads the individual statistics with a county best time in three events; The 200-yard Individual Medley, the 100 Butterfly, and the 100 Breaststroke.

Terra Linda's duo of freestylers, sprinter Thom Guthrie and distance ace Rick DeMont together lead the MCAL in all free distances, Guthrie taking the 50 and 100, and DeMont nailing down the 200 and 400. DeMont's 400 time is better than 10 seconds under the existing MCAL record.

Novato is represented in the diving by John Summerfield, who has recorded an incredible 260.35 points. Rounding out the individual events is Novato's Roger Rechsteiner with a 1971 league best in the 100 backstroke.

The Terra Linda Trojans dominate the relays, as Pat Ellington, Keith Strange, Dennis Knowles and Guthrie have a recorded best of 1:45.7 in the 200 Medley, and with Bruce Fromberg, Don Lafrenz, Jim Barton and DeMont besting league opponents in the 400 Free.

BEST TIMES

Marin Catholic Drops 7-1 Game To St. Ignatius

Marin Catholic High School's groundskeeper Al Reid did the Wildcat baseball team a dubious favor yesterday, as he rescued the diamond from under water in time for Marin Catholic to lose a non-league game to Saint Ignatius of San Francisco, 7-1.

The Wildcats got their run in the fourth inning on some fancy baserunning by Don Bianchini and Steve Sherry. Bianchini doubled, and after an infield out moved him to third, Sherry and Bianchini pulled a nifty double steal to shove Marin Catholic's only run across the plate.

Seals Score Well — Lose

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Seals scored five goals Friday night in their last meeting this season with the St. Louis Blues, but that wasn't enough to win.

The Seals were outscored 8-5 and lost the season series with St. Louis 4-1-1.

California pulled to within 6-4 early in the final period, but the Blues quickly scored twice on a power play by Gary Unger, his second goal of the night, and an unassisted shot by Chris Bordeleua. Jim Roberts also scored twice for St. Louis.

Tom Williams put two in the net for California, and was helped by Joe Hardy, Bill Sutherland, and Tony Featherstone, who each scored once.

Angels Top Oakland A's

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI)—Five singles in the first inning by the California Angels were too much Friday for the Oakland Athletics to overcome.

The Angels scored all four of their runs in the opening and won, 4-2, to complete a preseason sweep over Oakland.

The A's continue Cactus League competition today against the San Diego Padres.

VIDA Blue, the A's hard-throwing righthander who pitched a no-hitter last season, was the victim of the four-run Angels' outburst.

Blue settled down to stop the Angels for the next frames, and was followed by reliever Paul Lindblad, who pitched one inning of perfect ball.

But Oakland managed only two runs in the sixth off the Angels' winning pitcher, Rudy May. After Felipe Alou singled, May hit Sal Bando. Tommy Davis then singled in Alou, with Bando racing home on Angel Mangual's sacrifice fly.

Today is Saturday, March 27, the 86th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and the first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aries.

On this day in history:

In 1634 Leonard and George Calvert, English colonists, bought a tract of 30 acres on the St. Charles River and established what is now Maryland.

In 1964 an earthquake in Alaska left 17 persons either dead or missing and damages estimated at $750 million.

A thought for today: U.S. statesman Wendell Willkie said, "The Constitution does not provide for first and second-class citizens."

Color It Right In Placing Furniture

NEW YORK (UPI)—Off-white colored furniture, whether it be bedroom or dining room, needs to be placed against a background of color to show it off to full color, say decorating consultants.

Do not choose pastel colors such as pale blue or green, as they are too light in tone. A bolder shade, such as a mid-blue or olive green, will dramatize the whiteness of the furniture and give it the importance it deserves.

Overbidding Can Pay Well If Play Executed Expertly

"Please say a word or two about overbidding," a Chicago reader requests. "My partner will always bid a grand slam when only a small slam can be made. This is fair enough, because she bids a small slam if only a game can be made. Is there any cure for this disease?

BACK BID

"My partner jumped to seven hearts on the accompanying hand, and went down one when the spade finesse lost. Then she complained because I didn't have the king of spades for my free bid of one notrump.

"Was my bidding reasonable? What about my partner's?"

I see nothing wrong with the bidding. Aggressive, but that's no crime. The word about overbidding is that it pays if you know how to play the cards really well. Underbidding is a loser's game.

Even though the king of spades is in unfavorable position, South can make seven hearts against the club opening lead. If you haven't worked it out, take a few extra seconds to think about the correct play before you read on.

NORMAL BREAKS

You need only normal breaks to bring the grand slam home. Ruff the Queen of clubs, lead the jack of hearts to dummy's queen, ruff another club, and lead the four of diamonds to dummy's nine to enter the dummy. Now ruff dummy's last club with your last trump.

Lead a diamond to dummy's king, holding your breath while you wait to see if both opponents follow suit. When they do, lead dummy's three remaining trumps, discarding the three low spades from your own hand. You then take the rest of the tricks with the ace of spades and the good diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player jumps to two spades.

You hold:
♠- Q 9 2
♥- Q 10 9 8
♦- K 9 2
♣- Q 10 7.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three hearts. This is not considered a jump response, but simply a bid made under pressure.

Petaluma Youths Plead Guilty In Burglary Case

Two Petaluma youths have pleaded guilty to misdemeanor charges of burglary in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

The pleas by Dennis Keith Waterman, 19, of 36 Greylawn Avenue, and James Madison Cobb, 18, of 405 Coronado Drive, came after the felony charges were reduced to misdemeanors. Judge Alexander J. McMahon set sentencing for April 12 at 1:30 p.m.

The felony burglary charge against Margaret Josephine Hill, 19, of 1 Oak Hill Park, Petaluma, was also reduced to a misdemeanor and the case referred to juvenile court.

The three were arrested March 11 on suspicion of breaking into the home of Muriel V. Cranor, 16 Sixth Street, Petaluma.

Who Dies In Traffic? Study Gives Some Answers

Warmer, sunshiny days have to be right around the corner.

We are once more on the eve of the time of year when thousands of families hit the road for the open country each week-end.

And our week-end traffic toll will climb. Ambulances and tow trucks will be overworked. Even the coroner will get his share of calls.

OVER THE YEARS, we have been fed an abundance of traffic safety bromides such as:

Gasoline and alcohol don't mix.

If you drive, don't drink; if you drink, don't drive.

Speed kills.

Most accidents happen at night.

The list could be endless.

Many of these are like old wives' tales. They have little if any basis in established fact.

THREE YEARS AGO the California State Automobile Association, in cooperation with the Southern California Automobile Club, decided to delve into the facts.

Researchers from the two organizations studied every single fatal accident in California on several holiday week ends, over a period of two years.

Law enforcement accident reports were reviewed. The scene of each accident was visited. Violation and accident records of all drivers involved were studied.

Survivors, witnesses and even victims' friends and relatives were interviewed in depth.

The information thus obtained was published earlier this year in a 79-page booklet distributed to highway engineers, law enforcement officials, judges, educators and others involved in highway safety.

The findings were both interesting and enlightening.

MOST PEDESTRIANS killed along the road were adults, and almost half those adults had been drinking. More than half the pedestrians killed "were negligent to some degree and either caused or contributed to their demise."

No specific make or size of automobile appeared to have a larger proportion of fatalities than its proportionate numbers on the highways.

Motorcycles, on the other hand, were involved in 11 per cent of fatal accidents while they comprise only about four per cent of the vehicle registration.

"Alcohol, in varying but sufficient degrees to speculate on its relationship to the total accidents studied, was evident in almost half of the fatal accidents," said the researchers.

Mechanical failures and maintenance defects appeared to be contributing factors in only six per cent of fatal accidents. In most cases the driver or owner was aware of the defect prior to operating the vehicle on the day of the accident. More than half of the mechanical problems involved braking systems.

Drivers under 25 years of age had the worst record, followed closely by drivers in the 26-35 age bracket. Two-thirds of these young drivers also had records of prior accidents or violations.

Evaluation of medical reports and post-crash reconstructions led to the conclusion that more than half of those who had safety belt-harness combinations but were not using them could have survived had they used these safety devices.

Only 15 per cent of fatalities occurred on freeways; other types of roads accounted for the other 85 per cent of deaths.

There were approximately equal numbers of deaths at day and at night. Since traffic is heavier in the daytime, night driving must be recognized as more susceptible to fatal accidents.

More than half of all fatalities occured in single-car mishaps.

Almost two thirds of fatal accidents took place within 25 miles of the driver's home. "This indicates that the majority of these serious accidents involved drivers who were probably traveling over roadways that were familiar to them," the researchers observed.

Almost two-thirds of the traffic deaths took place in rural areas; only slightly more than a third were in urban areas.

Contrary to popular opinion, the last or 'returning home' days did not show a greater number of fatalities than any other full day over the holiday week ends. Analysis indicated that most of the motorists and pedestrians were engaged in activities common to any week end," the research indicated.

So much for the conclusions.

CONGRESS AND the state legislature have acted to juggle the calendar to provide more holiday week ends in 1971 than ever before.

Accident statistics will continue to climb.

Each of us can minimize his own chances of involvement by avoiding those controllabe conditions which seem to lead to accidents — the use of alcohol, failure to keep our cars in safe condition, failure to use available seat belt-harness combinations, and above all, failure to drive with caution and respect for our traffic laws.

Those Little Skunks

This is the time of year when Mama Skunk is likely to appear with her brood of young ones. They are cute and appealing, but even at this tender age they are armed and should be considered dangerous.

Recently, a lady wrote this paper blaming the raccoons for tearing up lawns in their search for grubs. She may be right, but we'll bet it is skunks that are doing that kind of damage. Skunks are notorious grubbers.

If you are not a friend of the skunk and are bothered by them in your neighborhood, there are two things you can do to discourage them. Be careful not to leave any food outside for your pets. And put plenty of mothballs under the house or the porch or wherever you think they are living.

The odor of the mothballs isn't exactly delightful, but it is more so than the odor of skunk.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to the San Rafael Parent-Teacher Council for sponsoring a candidates' night for board of education aspirants next Thursday, to the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce and Central Marin League ot Women Voters for sponsoring a similar forum for San Rafael mayor and city council candidates April 14, and to all the other organizations that are sponsoring school board candidates' nights. To you voters: Attend these affairs; don't vote blindly.

BOUQUETS to Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts for their spring cleanup campaign.

BRICKBATS to hitch-hikers who stand at dangerous intersections and freeway turnoffs thumbing rides, thereby inviting accidents, and to motorists who stop suddenly to pick them up, thereby causing accidents.

BOUQUET to the I-J itself, on attaining the ripe old age of 110 years. Been around a long time, folks, and pretty sprightly yet!

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Behr, San Rafael? It's Office Address

I note with interest that your references to State Sen. Peter Behr identify him as "R-San Rafael". Since he was elected from Mill Valley and is now reported to live in Tiburon, it seems as if he is trying to keep one step ahead of anticipated reditricting. If this is so we may soon read, "Peter Behr, R-Petaluma."

ALBERT E. WHITE
Mill Valley.

(The Independent-Journal uses the city of the legislator's home office, which is San Rafael in the cases of both Senator Behr and Assemblyman William T. Bagley. Behr now lives in Tiburon; Bagley, in Sleepy Hollow. Editor.)

No Easy Answer To Hospital Needs

Your comments on possible Marin General Hospital expansion were of great interest to the members of the board of directors, administration and the staff of the hospital; and you may be assured that we are trying to be most thorough in our studies in order to meet future hospital and health needs of Marin. In doing so we are aware of the policies adopted by Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin as well as other state and national health authorities.

The questions facing the board concerning its expansion are, (1) in what ways? (2) where?

The modern trend in health care is to provide a wide range of services directly related to the requirements of the community and to the personnel available. Such services can usually be delivered more effectively and economically when based in a larger hospital.

The Gorsline report has been very helpful in directing our attention to the need for expanded ambulatory care services, and indeed to some closer arrangements with existing extended care facilities . . .

The Board is aware of the problems of providing emergency care without duplicating services currently available. These problems are not unique to Marin County. There is no easy answer. Certainly this board does not have one; but be assured that it continues to explore what it can do to improve its services.

GWEN M. CAMPION, M.D.

Madison Avenue Takes Over: 'Get High In The Air Force'

WASHINGTON — The Army has launched a $10,600,000 TV and radio recruiting campaign. As the Wall Street Journal indicated, this could make the U.S. Army one of the biggest prime time advertisers on television.

The announcement has the Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force boiling mad, as they are dependent on the networks for showing their commercials gratis, usually at 1 o'clock in the morning, just before they play the "Star Spangled Banner."

It has to follow that the Navy and Air Force will soon have advertising budgets as well, and pretty soon we'll have an advertising war on TV the likes of which we haven't seen since the soap companies added enzymes to their phosphates.

I CAN JUST SEE the advertising agency making a pitch for the Air Force account.

"General, the Army is selling education, the Navy's selling travel and the Marine Corps is selling patriotism. We have to come up with something else."

The general says: "Are you sure that will attract young aviators?"

"That's just the opener, general. Here's the idea for a commercial. We show a dog-face in a muddy foxhole eating a can of corned beef. Then we show a sailor swabbing down the deck of an aircraft carrier all by himself. Then we cut to a marine, shoulder-deep in water, coming out on the beach, and then we show an Air Force officer."

"FLYING A PLANE?" the general asks.

"No, dammit. He's walking down Sunset Boulevard with a girl on each arm. The voice-over says 'If you like corned beef, join the Army. If you like mopping decks, sign up with the Navy. If you enjoy walking in water with a full pack, join the Marines.'

"Then we pan to the two girls again, and the voice says 'The Air Force has a better idea.' "

"Isn't that a little blatant?" the general asks.

"General, you run your bombing missions and let me run my advertising campaigns."

"I DON'T KNOW," the general says. "The Army may not like it."

"Does Hertz like Avis? Does Crest like Colgate? Does Pepto-Bismol like Alka Seltzer? General, this isn't war we're talking about now. This is serious business. All right, so you don't like that commercial. What about this one?

"We show a mother holding her head. Her 18-year-old son comes in with a transistor radio blaring out rock music. The mother shouts, 'Will you turn that radio off!' Her friend from next door walks in. 'Clara, you're nervous and short tempered. Here is what you need.' She hands her a folder and we zoom in on it. It says on the cover, 'If your children give you a headache, make them join the Air Force.' "

THE GENERAL SAYS, "Holy smokes, that's a bit rough."

The agency man says, "What do you want, good airmen or good taste?"

"Well, I guess you know your business," the general says.

"Now, I've got a surprise for you. I've come up with a slogan that will knock 'em dead. Are you ready?"

The agency man takes out a large poster, flips it over, and printed in large letters over a B-52 airplane are the words: "FROM THE PEOPLE WHO GAVE YOU A CLEAN HYDROGEN BOMB."

Labor Alarms, Nixon's Pressure Not Enough To Save The SST

WASHINGTON — The supersonic transport will not be funded for further development despite the support of organized labor The AFL-CIO sought to influence waverers with the claim that the SST will create jobs not only in depression-ridden Seattle but in other aerospace centers.

Economists of the first rank, such as Walter W. Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers in the Kennedy-Johnson years, riddled the exaggerated job claims made by labor and industry. They pointed to a dozen other ways for more effectiveness in creating employment.

They also undercut the contention that the SST is essential to America's balance-of-payments position. The British-French Concorde is lagging, and while the Russians claim that their SST, the Tupelo-144, will be flying domestic routes this year, it is most unlikely that it will be ready for transoceanic flights in the foreseeable future. Furthermore, it is inconceivable that American airlines would purchase a plane that has not been subject to testing by international standards.

THE AMERICAN carriers on intercontinental routes are simply in no position to put up money for a plane that will cost $50 million or more. Their jumbo 747 jets are flying half-empty and the financial pages tell the story of a sharp downturn in profits, with no immediate prospect of an upturn. The recession hit travel hard and it has not yet come back.

American carriers obviously wanted the government to put up the purchase money for reasons of prestige. Despite the gloss supplied by organized labor, it was class legislation of the most blatant kind. Only a small fraction of one per cent would be able to use the SST in order to save two or two and one-half hours on the flight to Europe and four or five hours across the Pacific. An essential surcharge would put the cost beyond the reach of all but a tiny traveling elite.

THE PRESSURE applied by the administration on wavering Republicans and on doubtful Democrats was extraordinary. But one of the most articulate Republicans, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, was a leader of the opposition. His background of success in business underscored his attack on the economics of the giant plane.

Percy recently toured his home state from north to south. On his return to Washington he said he was amazed at the grass-roots opposition to the SST. He found the people he talked with at country crossroads and in the urban areas well aware of how very few Americans would benefit from a government subsidy of at least $2 billion to $3 billion.

One puzzle is why the administration concentrated so much time and energy on a project that could return only limited dividends.

Soviet Union Assembles Rubber-Stamp Congress

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

From the far corners of the Soviet Union next Tuesday, Uzbeks, Tadzhiks, Kirghiz, Lithuanians, Byelorrusians and others of the 15 constituent republics will gather in the glass and marble Palace of Congresses in the Kremlin for a happening—the 24th congress of the Communist party.

Altogether there will be some 5,000 of them representing the whole colorful sweep of the Soviet Union, assembled to rubber stamp the actions past and future of the sober, humorless men who control the destinies of more than 250 million people.

UNDER THE SOVIET constitution the congress is to meet every four years and is supposed to be the party's highest body of authority.

Josef Stalin wore it down so that today it is less even than a debating society. The four-year span between meetings usually is stretched to five.

Nonetheless it plays a role, sometimes for notable omissions in the reports submitted by its leaders, sometimes for changes it discloses among the top echelons and once in awhile for a genuine surprise.

One such came at the 20th congress 15 years ago when Nikita Khrushchev denounced Stalin and the cult of the individual.

BUT THIS YEAR there is every indication that the colorless men at the top mean that the congress is to reflect their own businesslike but unexciting personalities. The emphasis will be on economics and what infighting the new decisions involved already is over and done with and the differences painted over.

There was a rumor that the ruling troika of Party Leader Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny, faced with mounting dissidence among the country's intellectuals and a clamor among Jews for freedom to emigrate to Israel, might be planning to rehabilitate Stalin and his hard line.

Apparently not. Nor is there expected to be any further denunciation of that non-person Khrushchev.

ECONOMICALLY, the emphasis is to be placed on increased production of consumer goods, possibly with the recent violent expression of Polish unrest in mind.

The Russians never publish cost figures for their military program, and the ninth five-year plan is equally vague as to how much is to go into housing, into agriculture, and to those manufacturing sectors which contribute to a better, easier life.

For the first time in Soviet history consumer goods have been allocated a faster growth rate than heavy industry.

On the congress agenda are only two major items—Brezhnev's report on the state of the union, and Kosygin's proposed industrial reforms, modernization of plants and increased incentives for workers and managers.

Otherwise things are to be as they were before.

The same leadership will remain at the top. Red China and Albania will be invited but will not attend.

Land Bill Is Backed In Marin

The Marin Property Owners Association announced yesterday its support of a bill designed to forestall mass closure of private lands to public recreation use.

At the same time, the measure, introduced in Sacramento by Sen Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ventura, would prevent involuntary loss of property rights from public use occuring after enactment of the bill.

The bill (SB 504), co-authored by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, is designed to offset the effects of two state Supreme Court rulings last year that held private landowners could not prevent the public from using their land if the public had enjoyed the use for at least five years.

As a result of the rulings, Lagomarsino pointed out, many property owners who have previously permitted public entry onto their lands are fencing off their properties in order to insure private title to the land.

Thus, he said, it is possible as much as nine million acres of private land previously used by the public for recreational purposes could be closed this summer, placing an added burden on state and national forests and parks.

Lagomarsino said the legislation sets state policy under which lands could be kept open to the public without title impairment. The bill, he stressed, would not affect rights already gained or liable to be gained as a result of past usage.

Rex Silvernale, president of the property owners group, said it was not known how many acres of private land in Marin might be shut to the public if the bill were not passed, but felt many property owners would be forced to fence their lands to hunting, fishing, hiking and other recreational uses.

The bill, an urgency measure which requires a two-thirds vote of both legislative houses, has been referred to the Senate Committee on Natural Resources and Wildlife.

Auto Stripped

Mervin A. Santori, 3258 Old Adobe Road, Petaluma, told police Thursday that his car was stripped of rear wheels, tires and shocks while parked at 854 Western Avenue. He said an electric impact wrench was also taken. Total loss was set at $260.

Building Codes In Quake Regions Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The "moderate" earthquake of Feb. 9 killed 64 Southern Californians, caused up to $1 billion in property damage, and proved that building codes in quake-prone regions had better be revised to prepare for calamities yet to come.

This is the conclusion of a panel of experts who went to Pasadena in late February to find out what lessons could be learned from the quake that jarred Los Angeles and the San Fernando Valley.

The National Academy of Sciences and the National Academy of Engineering, sponsors of the study, sent the panel's report to President Nixon with this note: "We hope that the report of this group will aid in planning the means for minimizing losses from earthquakes that will certainly occur many times in the future in earthquake-prone regions of the United States."

The report said permits for building in danger areas should be issued on the basis of potential risks and only after the purchaser is aware of all the known facts.

"State and local government needs support in the form of well-conceived regulations," the report said, "in order to resist political and economic pressures to develop land in ways that are unwise in terms of environmental hazards."

The San Fernando quake was "moderate" by definition because it registered only 6.6 on the Richter scale. "Great" quakes, like the San Francisco shock of 1906, go higher than 8 on the scale. What made the San Fernando shake a disaster was the fact that it occurred in a densely populated region.

Four hospitals were put out of action when they were most needed, the older schools were made unsafe, collapse of part of an old dam posed a threat of catastrophe that forced evacuation of 80,000 persons, and freeway overpasses fell down, causing some deaths and disrupting traffic.

"It is clear," the panel reported, "that existing building codes do not provide adequate damage-control features. Such codes should be revised."

Typewriter Stolen

An electric Typewriter valued at $532 was stolen from the office of Dr. William M. Lamers, 1100 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, sometime last weekend, Marin County sheriff's office reported Thursday.

Novato Firm Low Bidder On Alaskan Job

C. R. Fedrick Inc. of Novato has been awarded a $1,392,000 contract to construct a concrete landing apron at Elmendorf Air Force Base, near Anchorage, Alaska.

Fedrick, notified Thursday of the successful bid, said the job is scheduled to start May 1 and be completed in 210 calendar days. His firm was lowest of three bidders.

Work will be by Alaskan labor along with "key personnel" from the Novato office, he said.

Fedrick reported that his firm yesterday received a $478,749 contract to construct a storm drain discharge system at the University of California at Davis. There were 11 bidders on that job.

Baron Appears; Arraignment On Murder Delayed

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Joseph Barboza Baron, 38, reputed gangland enforcer, appeared in Superior Court for arraignment on murder charges yesterday but the case was put over until April 16.

Baron is charged with the fatal shooting of Clay Wilson, 26, Santa Rosa, a heavy equipment operator, last July. Public Defender Marteen Miller said in court he intended to file for a change of venue in the case on grounds of prejudicial publicity.

Wilson's wife told authorities that Baron and Wilson had been arguing before the shooting about $100,000 worth of stocks and bonds which Wilson said he had buried in a tin box.

Deputies said the mysterious stocks may have been those stolen from a Petaluma home and never recovered.

Buses Looted Of Extinguishers

Burglars took eight fire extinguishers valued at $200 from eight San Rafael school buses between 5 p.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday, according to police.

The theft of the extinguishers from the buses parked in the San Rafael City Schools lot at 38 Union Street was discovered after one was found in the street at 22 Mission Avenue police said.

Tennis Lessons In Terra Linda

Terra Linda Recreation-Park District is offering tennis lessons on Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 12:30 to 2 p.m. to residents and non-residents of the district.

Cost is $12 for eight lessons, and must be paid before April 9, according to district officials. The lessons will be held on the Terra Linda High School courts.

Big Suit In Bicycle Mishap

A $75,000 suit in connection with a bicycle accident has been filed in Marin Superior Court against the City of Novato.

The suit, filed by Floyd Bryan III, 15, and his parents, Marie and Floyd Bryan, now of Pennsylvania, charges the city with negligence in the maintenance of Pioneer Park.

The youth suffered a broken collar bone when he was thrown from his bicycle when it hit a ditch in the park March 26, 1970, according to the suit.

In addition to $75,000 general damages, the suit, filed Thursday, asks unspecified special damages for the boy and his parents.

Jury Convicts Novatan In Pot Selling Case

A Marin Superior Court jury has deliberated two hours before finding Dennis B. Williams, 20, of Novato, guilty of selling marijuana last Aug. 17.

The verdict came Thursday after a four-day trial in the courtroom of Judge Thomas F. Keating.

He is to be sentenced May 3.

PROFILE OF A SONOMAN

Gene Benedetti — Traditionalist And Dairy Spokesman

By BONNIE BARD

All roads in the North Bay dairy country lead to Petaluma where Gene Benedetti heads the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery.

Benedetti has led the firm since 1951 and believes in moving ahead with new equipment and expanded markets, but he is also a man who cherishes the past and life style of older times.

In his office on Western Avenue hang pictures of horse-drawn milk wagons which once rambled city streets.

"The cooperative was formed in 1913 by 33 milk producers in Marin and Sonoma who felt the brokers in San Francisco were taking advantage of them," Benedetti related.

THE COMPANY is still at its original site where the ranchers bought a hog farm from the late Tom Caulfield. "The chamber of commerce wanted it on the east side of the railroad tracks, but they thought the trains would scare the horses," he said.

With gradual growth under the Clover label, the firm now produces between 100,000 and 105,000 gallons per day. While home delivery was once the heart of the business, it accounts for only 10 per cent today.

THE CREAMERY also sells a full range of dairy products and sells its bulk milk to other buyers, such as Lucky Food Stores. Last year the firm grossed 22 million dollars and Benedetti expects it to hit 24 million dollars in 1971.

"The dairy industry is healthy in our area," Benedetti said, adding he felt the increasing property tax rate was the major economic threat.

"Some of the ranchers have put their property into agricultural preserves, but others hesitate because land values have increased so much," he said.

"SOME OF THE land is many years away from any devlopment, but the ranchers are being penalized on taxes now," he said. "We need a law that if a person is living off the land, the land should be rated and assessed as agricultural."

GENE BENEDETTI, manager of the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery, watches while a portion of a day's milk production rolls past on the assembly line. A widened range of products and increased profits reflect the good economic health of the Sonoma-Marin dairy industry, despite a bigger tax bite and increasing land values.

Benedetti sees himself as a lobbyist for the dairy industry and spends a great deal of time in Sacramento trying to get legislation passed to assist ranchers in retaining their land.

He said the creamery has also felt some pressure from ecology groups seeking a return to bottled milk.

"I can't envision what the price would be, but I know it would be a drastic increase," Benedetti said. He said that bottles may make 14 or 15 trips to homes, but that breakage would be much higher in stores.

"I CAN'T SEE how it would help ecology — paper will return to its natural form in dumps, but glass never does," he said. "Besides, a case of glass bottles weighs much more than paper cartons, so we'd need more trucks and would be putting more impurities in to the air.

The firm, under the urging of the city of Petaluma and the Regional Water Quality Control Board, has installed an evaporator condenser that has stopped all discharge into the Petaluma River.

BENEDETTI SAID that river water had been used for cooling, but, with the new equipment, well water will be used and recycled.

Another addition nearing completion is an $800,000 dryer and evaporator that will permit the creamery to use surplus milk for powdered skim milk and butter. The firm currently produces 14,000 pounds of butter per day.

Benedetti will celebrate his 25th year with the firm in May, having started work there after a brief stint as head football coach at Santa Rosa Junior College after World War II.

"I CAME TO buy milk after a year and a half, went into the plant as a trainee, then began selling and then into the office as assistant manager," he said. "I still have a lot to learn."

Bendetti, 51, lives in Penngrove and has always been active in civic affairs. He is, perhaps, best known in his role as president of the Friends of Sonoma State College.

"You might say that's the closest I've ever come to controversy," he said, acknowledging that some of the students regard the group as enemies. The group has been a favorite target of student newspapers.

CLAIMING the group has not sought to be controversial, he said, "I'm not a long hair, but I

He said he was concerned, however, that the college is not meeting the needs of the local area and that he hoped to see a nursing school or medical courses offered.

Benedetti, who has three married daughters and two sons and a daughter at home, said his children have been trained to think for themselves.

"I APPRECIATE free thinking," he said, "but it must be exercised within the laws of the land."

"I feel we're not the smartest people in the world — we have a lot to learn and must learn how to live," he said, recalling a trip he and his wife, Evelyn, made to Italy over the Christmas holidays.

There he visited the small village in Tuscany where his father was born. He said 200 residents live on top of a terraced mountain where no car can enter.

"Many have never been very far from the village in their entire lives," he said.

"They live a very simple, happy life," he added. "They put on no airs — they're very honest and basic people. We must develop some of that faith in life."

Teen-Age Volunteers Red Cross Stalwarts

Koss Sisters Stand Ready To Tackle A Wide Variety Of Useful Tasks

"I think we've really found something here."

"It's a sort of homing place for us, a place we can always come back to, and feel useful and comfortable."

"And it really has helped us to grow up."

The Koss sisters, Marla and Pam, ages 18 and 17, Novato residents and College of Marin students, are speaking of their experiences as volunteers for the Marin County Chapter of the American Red Cross, an activity that has helped to fill their hours and their need for creative service to their community.

And older personnel at the Red Cross office at 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, say the two teen-age volunteers have brought a whole new youthful exuberance and energy to the agency.

They had just moved to Marin County from Sacramento and were eager for a means of filling the hours left over after summer school. Pam had a friend working in a convalescent hospital, and that type of humanitarian employment appealed to her. But without work experience and with no contacts in the community, paid jobs seemed next to unobtainable for the sisters.

Pam did get a lead on one job, but turned it down. "Who wants to look at hamburgers, day after day?" she asks.

SO THE TWO girls then turned to volunteer service as a means of obtaining work experience. And there was this story in the Independent-Journal about youths working without pay in convalescent hospitals. That path led them to the Red Cross

They admit to being edgy as the date approached for their interview with Joanne Karlsrud, the Red Cross youth director. drew near. "The homesickness we still felt for Sacramento didn't help," they acknowledge

NEVERTHELESS, with determination and desperation conquering doubts and fear, Pam and Marla presented themselves to Mrs. Karlsrud for an interview on July 7, 1970, and on that day became part of the Red Cross' huge world-wide volunteer family.

Within a week the girls had relaxed in their new volunteer roles, and fellow staffers tease them that that tense interview day was the last time either of them has been seen at Red Cross headquarters in a dress.

The youth director's office now doubles as their bicycle garage, and Mrs. Karlsrud is now Joanne to them, a personal friend away from as well as in the office. The three are frequent companions.

THE TWO COLLEGE of Marin students now spend virtually all their after-school and away-from-studies hours at the Red Cross.

With their ever-present bicycles, Mrs. Karlsrud picks them up in the mornings in Novato and brings them with her to the Red Cross chapter offices in San Rafael. Twice a week, when they do not have classes at Kentfield, she also drives them home. For transportation between San Rafael and the college, they rely upon their bikes. And much of their studying, as well as their volunteer activities, is conducted at the Red Cross headquarters.

Both sisters were born in Tacoma, Wash., and have known many homes before moving to Marin.

THERE WERE SIX months of residence in Maine, four years at Bedford, N.H., from which they still cherish fond recollections of forests filled with maple trees, some time in Corpus Christi, Tex., and some more at Tahoe City, and 14 years in Sacramento, three of these in Carmichael living with their older sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Thatcher.

"We learned so much from them," remarks Marla, "especially about ecology."

Pam hopes to return to New Hampshire and the maple trees this summer to work on the dairy farm of her godparents and earn some money for college.

PAM AND MARLA now reside in Novato with their father and step-mother, Lt. Col. and Mrs. John J. Koss. Retired from the Air Force, Colonel Koss is now in the insurance business.

Marla graudated from high school shortly after moving from Sacramento by taking a summer course in government at San Rafael High School.

Pam has attended continuation high school in San Rafael and will be awarded her official diploma in June. But in the meanwhile she has carried a full load at the College of Marin — Russian, French, animal biology, communications and jogging.

Marla highly recommends the jogging program, "because, aside from losing 20 pounds last semester, it also gives me a chance to do a lot of thinking. Besides, I love the teacher!"

"THERE'S A LOT of homework," admits Marla, "but we love it."

With little formal training, Marla is an excellent artist. Using her in-born creativity and talent, she is in the process of writing and illustrating a book of stories for children.

The stories will be aimed at third and fourth grade youngsters, to be read to themselves but with meaning that even adults can appreciate.

"I'LL START WITH an idea of what I want to draw," she says, "and by the time I'm finished, I know what the story is all about."

She hopes to have her book published soon so that it will help her gain admittance to the University of California at Santa Cruz where she will seek a major in humanities.

Pam, too, is considering a transfer to Santa Cruz, but is eyeing Humboldt State College as well.

Ecologically-concerned, Pam's ambition is to help achieve a future "where one will be able to ride a bicycle without wearing a gas mask."

SHE WOULD ALSO like to see people eat less meat, deploring "the waste of animal life" in the slaughter houses. Waste generally dismays her, and she speaks earnestly of the need to preserve our natural resources.

At the Red Cross office, the two sisters participate in a great many phases of the always abundant and pressing work load.

Originally attracted to convalescent hospital work, they decided office work would give them valuable experience.

MARLA HAS BECOME the official chapter artist, and she designs and silk-screens everything from recruitment posters to invitations. She has even built a silkscreen for the office from chapter funds.

Marla is also the editor of the Red Cross Youth newsletter, provocatively titled Listen, which is sent monthly to about 300 youth volunteers as well as school principals and Red Cross teacher-sponsors.

INSIDE THE Red Cross headquarters for Marin County, youthful volunteers Marla and Pam Koss run over their work assignments for the day with Mrs. Fred Adams, the vice chairman of the volunteer program. The two girls, the Red Cross staff says, bring a youthful exuberance to the whole office.

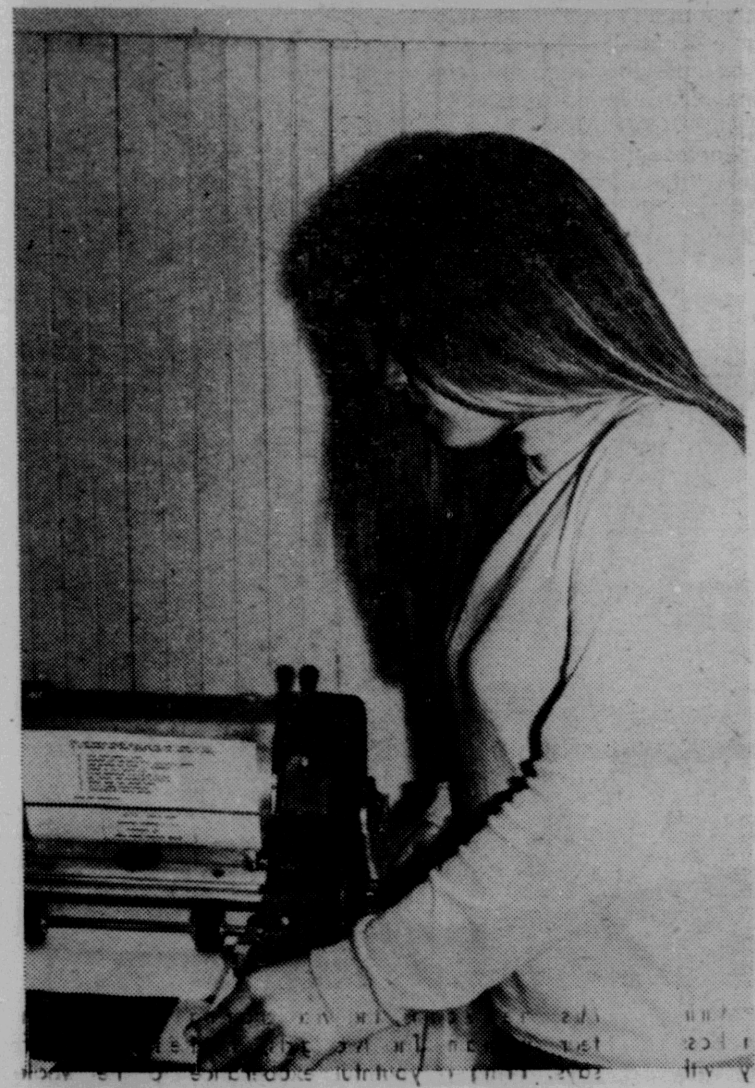
THE TASKS performed by the versatile Koss sisters, Marla and Pam, in their roles as volunteer workers for the Marin Chapter, American Red Cross, are many and varied. Sometimes it is as simple as answering the telephone as Marla is doing in the photograph at upper left. Or it may be some of the filing always so essential to a service agency that Pam is performing at upper right. As the chapter's artist, Marla, at left, puts her creative talents to work making posters and similar materials for the Red Cross. And below, Pam operates the mimeograph machine in the chapter offices. One of the principal reasons the two girls volunteered for the Red Cross program was to gain such diversified work experience. And so often are they occupied by their chores at chapter headquarters that they have come to regard it as a kind of a second home. Sometimes even their studying for their College of Marin courses is done there between Red Cross tasks.



Rewards Of Red Cross Service

ing and placement of new youth volunteers who apply to serve in convalescent hospitals and other Red Cross programs. Her help frees the youth director for administrative work and it is reassuring to the new volunteers to talk to someone close to their own age.

PAM AND MARLA have become almost permanent fixtures at Red Cross. They are officially youth volunteers, but Mrs. Karlsrud often "lends" them to the rest of the staff. Both girls are always willing to help with any current project or with such necessary office work as answering phones and typing envelopes.

Because of their extraordinary service and dedication, Marla and Pam each received a Certificate of Appreciation from the Marin County Red Cross Chapter at its annual meeting last October.

The recent oil spill crisis which brought out the volunteer in many Marin residents also attracted Pam and Marla. For Pam, helping in Red Cross feeding operations for volunteers one Saturday was "like being part of one big family."

Pam and Marla say they have come to love Marin County, "especially the scenery and the people." But applying the critical eye of youth, they see much which needs to be done in the community.

They both attended a recent meeting of the Marin Transit Board of Directors where Marla voiced the complaints of College of Marin students regarding bus schedules. During December they helped with Economic Opportunity Council project, "Christmas for All Marin."

Not content with merely identifying problems, Pam and Marla feel that in Red Cross they have found a way to change things. "Peace rallies and marches are fine," says Pam, "but they don't get anything done."

PAM FEELS THAT finally she has found a way to get things done through the community leaders she has met in her volunteer work. Both girls agree that the ideas of youth are really being listened to at Red Cross.

Summing up her feelings about Red Cross, Marla says she's aiming at a 70-year service pin. "And I'm not leaving until they give it to me!" she adds with a smile.

Seeing The Bay From The Cruise Boat

In many areas the initiation of ferryboat service between San Francisco and Sausalito, under Golden Gate Bridge District auspices, was hailed as "a reintroduction" of a mode of transportation that had been absent from San Francisco Bay for years.

Not so, points out Al Elledge, for his Harbor Tours, of which he is president.

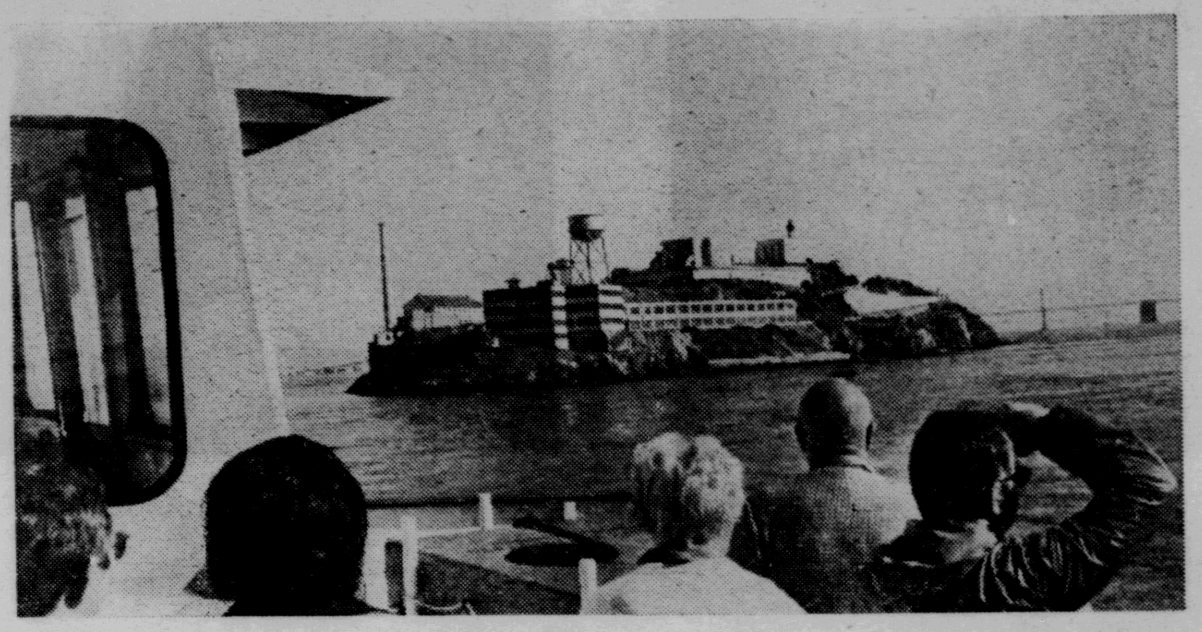
Harbor Tours Inc. and Harbor Carriers Inc. have been providing ferry service between Tiburon and San Francisco since 1962.

And long before that, the red-and-white vessels of the fleet were a familiar signt on San Francisco Bay, seen from the Marin or San Francisco shorelines or from the Golden Gate Bridge as they carried passengers around the bay on their popular sightseeing cruises.

Operations continue the year around, but reach their peak during the tourist season that arrives in around Easter. Then five double and triple decked vessels — the Harbor Emperor, the Harbor King, the Harbor Queen, the Harbor Prince and the Harbor Princess — are kept busy filling the tour cruise and ferry service commitments.

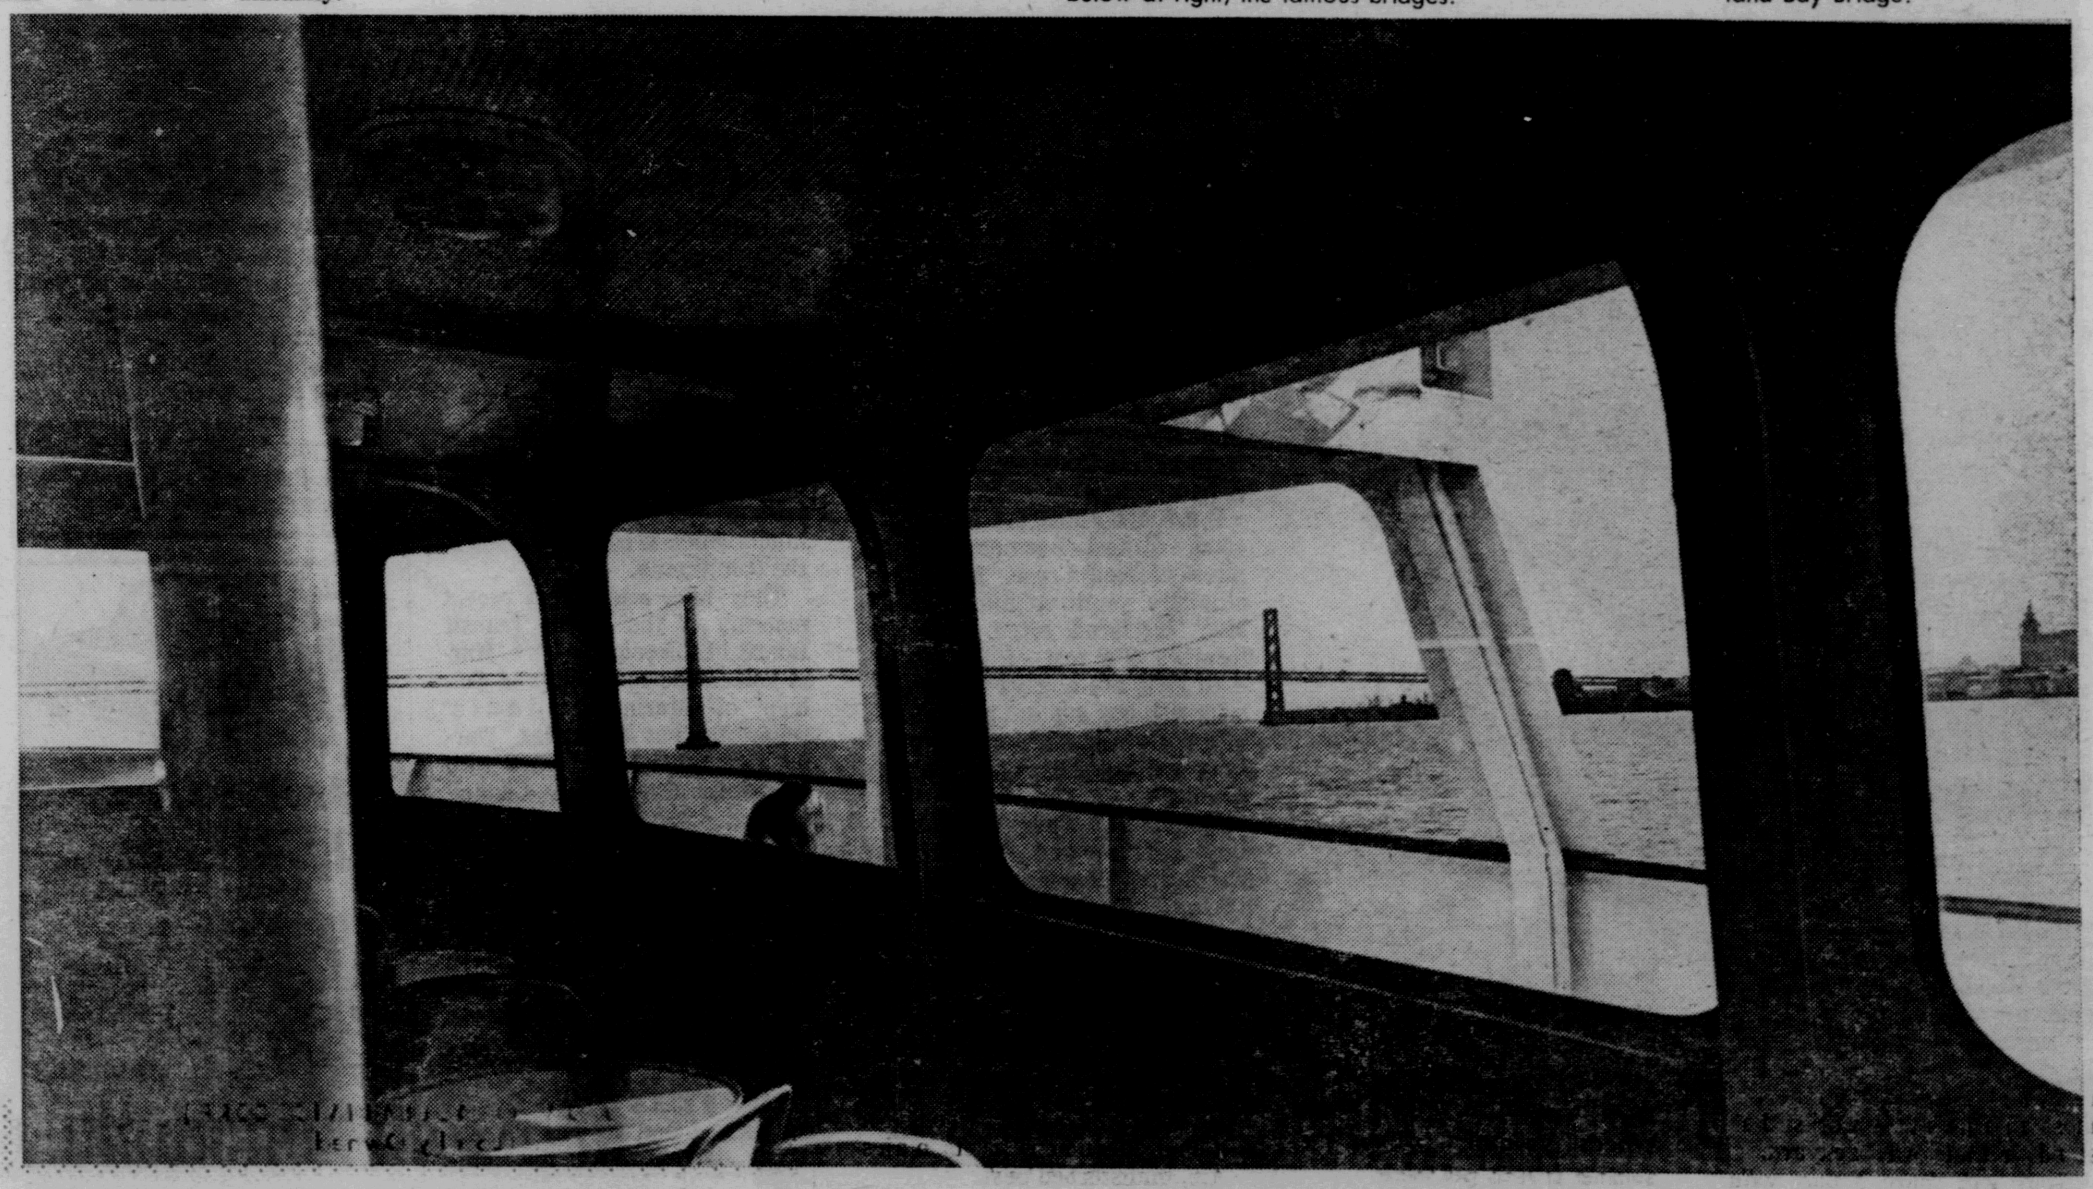
The cruises depart from San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf, Pier 43½, at 30 to 45 minute intervals, with the trips lasting an hour and a quarter, and including a close-up view of Alcatraz. In the course of the cruises, the boats pass beneath both the Golden Gate and Bay bridges.

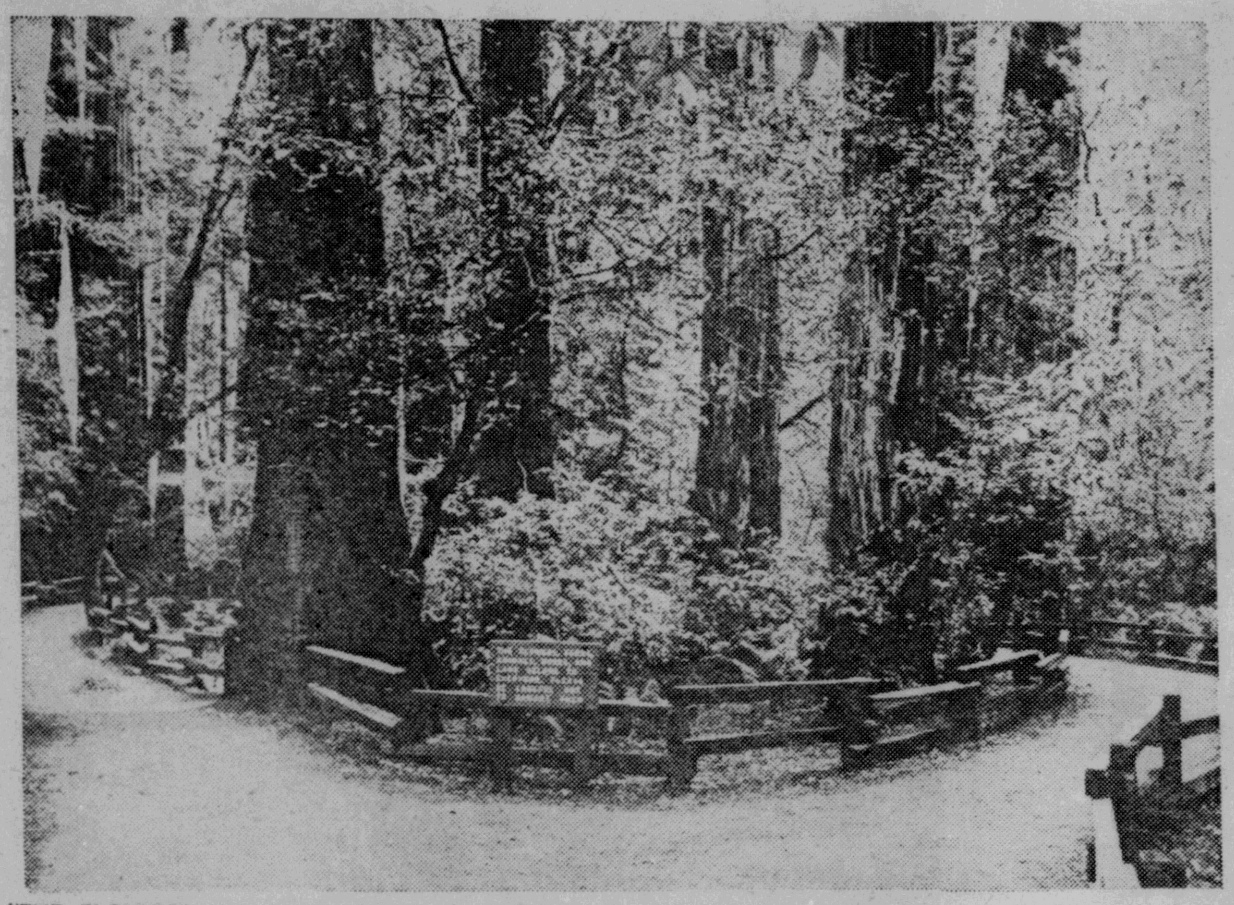
Elledge suggests that many Northern Californians have failed to take advantage of the opportunity to see their home territory from the water — a chance seized eagerly by thousands of tourists annually.



A CRUISE ON one of the Harbor Tours vessels gives the passenger an entirely new perspective of such San Francisco Bay sights as, at top, Alcatraz, in middle photo, the San Francisco skyline, and below at right, the famous bridges.

ONE WAY to get a different view of the Golden Gate Bridge is to see it from below, from the deck of a Harbor Tours cruise ship. The cruise vessels also pass beneath the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.





"THE FLOWERS, ferns, animals, woods and land belong to everyone . . .," the Muir Woods National Monument visitor is reminded by this sign. And the visitor unfailingly is impressed by the awesome immensity of this public possession, particularly now in early spring when the great woods are at their refreshing best.

Muir Woods Before The Tourist Crowds

By DON KEOWN

What is the best time of the year to visit Muir Woods National Monument to admire its big trees and other natural sights?

"Right now," answers Marvin Hershey, its chief ranger, without the slightest hesitation.

The woods are at their most beautiful best in late March and early April, Hershey believes. Spring arrives early at the world famous national monument, bringing a freshness to the air and a greenness to the terrain that cannot help but revive tired spirits, minds and bodies.

FURTHERMORE, Hershey says, by coming now, you will avoid the larger throngs of tourists who will visit Muir Woods later. Particularly on week days, there is a feeling now that one has this great citadel of nature virtually to himself. The serenity that is very much a part of the distinctive feeling of Muir Woods is there to be savored in full measure.

The big deluge of visitors will not begin until May — sometime before Memorial Day.

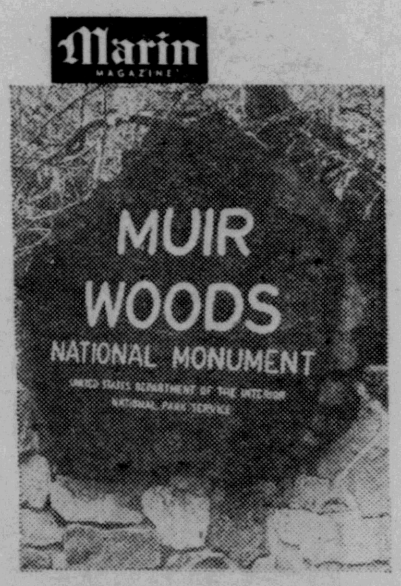
Then tourists from all the American states and from dozens of foreign countries will arrive to walk beneath the mighty trees and gaze upwards in astonishment and awe.

BUT UNTIL then, there are days, beautiful days, when Muir Woods belongs almost exclusively to Marinites — and it is amazing how many of them have never visited this globally-renowned showcase of nature's most majestic works that stands in their own backyard.

They will share it only with the current staff of six permanent and six temporary employees.

Later, when the "tourist season" begins, this force will be augmented by another three or four men.

Last year 735,000 people including representatives of some two score foreign lands visited the park. This year, Hershey says, the total is likely to go over the 750,000 mark.



COVER PHOTO

BEYOND this sign greeting visitors to Muir Woods National Monument lies some of the grandest natural scenery on earth. Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax and his cameras take you along the National Park Service maintained trails to view some of it on this and the following five pages. It will, he hopes, cause you to want to visit Muir Woods yourself, before the summer crowds get there.

THEY'LL FIND the new concessions building that opened last summer. The administration facilities have been improved during the off-season.

But at Muir Woods, nature's works are the attraction, and these have come down unchanged through centuries.

So that foreign guests can better enjoy and understand what they are seeing, the national park service presents them with especially printed guide booklets or brochures. These, Hershey says, are now available in six languages in addition to English, with more scheduled to be added.

MAKE IT A full outing by including a hike over one of the trails, such as the historic old Dipsea, that fan out from Muir Woods into the neighboring Mount Tamalpais State Park.

"The views from the high points on these trails on crisp, clear spring days are breath-taking," Hershey promises.

Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax accepted Hershey's suggestion that now is the time to go to Muir Woods. He took along his camera. And the pictures shown on these pages are evidence of what you will be missing if you, too, do not accept Ranger Hershey's invitation to beat the crowds and to enjoy Muir Woods National Monument at its majestic, undisturbed best.

SHADED PATHS picturesquely railed allow Muir Woods National Monument visitors to stroll beneath the branches of the majestic redwoods. Wooden bridges lead them across Redwood Creek. Strategically placed signs inform them of the nature and the histories of the great trees. And there are cool, secluded spots at which to rest the spirits and the body. Photographer Bob Hax has caught them all in this picture series.

Spring In Muir Woods

BOB HAX, Independent-Journal staff photographer, says that when he visited Muir Woods National Park, he strolled, like any other visitor, along the "loop" path that took him first along one bank of Redwood Creek, then across the stream, and back to park headquarters along the other side of the creek. Along the way he shot these and the pictures appearing on the preceding three pages and the cover in an attempt to show the scenery and serenity that Marinites can enjoy if they visit the national monument before the tourist influx begins. Chief Ranger Marvin Hershey says the early spring is the very best time of the year to see Muir Woods. Week days are especially quiet and uncrowded.

It's Spring In Yosemite

A "best of two worlds" spring in Yosemite National Park is under way.

The sound of nature's music is in the valley (at 4,000 feet) as the spectacular waterfalls and cascades start their annual pulmeting and crashing down with the melt from tha heavy snows above. The building to spring crescendo is heard; each sounding its note — Bridalveil, Ribbon, Yosemite, Royal Arch, Vernal and Nevada, Snow Creek, Staircase, Silver Strand, and all the others.

Up above (at 7,000 to 9,000 feet), in the area around Badger Pass, downhill skiers continue their zestful runs on four feet of snow; cross-country ski tourers learn and fare forth into the Sierra; snow campers build their overnight igloos; snowmobiles take non-skiers to the wintry High Country views.

SOMETIME IN the next eight or nine weeks, both worlds will melt into one. Meanwhile, spring — and a full one, after all the snow — commands the day, and people choose their way to enjoy the season at Yosemite.

The choices are many.

There's been excitement all winter as cross-country ski touring and snow-camping have exploded in popularity.

Wayne Merry, director of Yosemite Mountaineering School, plans to continue weekend snow-camping through April, snow permitting. And, he'll have individual cross-country ski touring instruction, by reservation, as long as the snow up there holds.

MEANWHILE, IN Yosemite Valley, he's beginning climbing classes, by reservation, and says of this: "The best days of the year for valley climbing are the crisp, sunny days of early spring."

He speaks of the arriving season: ''Each day we see the swelling of buds on willows and dogwoods, and the ruddy catkins on the alders. . . . We hear the early singing of tree toads in the meadow pools and robins are appearing and redwing blackbirds. Along the Merced River Canyon on the way into the Valley, the redbud is beginning to appear — some buttercups and baby blue eyes too — all against the most vibrant green of them all . . . the buckeye."

PARK SERVICE ranger-naturalists, too, have morning guided walks to different areas of Yosemite Valley; evening slide talks on the formation, conservation and preservation of Yosemite. The Easter vacation week, from April 4 to April 11, offers a number of special guest activities including a return visit by San Francisco Artist Florence Holub who will have every-morning sketching sessions for guests, late afternoon sketching with children-guests at The Ahwahnee, and an evening slide talk on "Early Yosemite Artists" for all.

Also: The exhibit of Yosemite serigraphs by Howard Bradford of Monterey continues at The Ahwahnee. And, there'll be children's movies and scenic movies; Easter egg hunts, Easter bonnet parade (at Badger), Easter Day brunch; special events at Badger; dancing and dining; and bikes, hikes, fours, and trout fishing along the Merced.

The Easter Sunday service, April 11, will be led by Rev. John Davis of Yosemite in the ampitheater at Campground 14. A young people's choir will sing. The choir also will give a program Saturday, April 10, at 5 p.m. at The Ahwahnee; and a folk musical, "Natural High," at 8:30 p.m. at the Visitor Center the same night.

El Salvador Offers Tourists Swinging Capital, Lush Parks

The Travel Pages

Few travelers have discovered the kaleidoscopic natural beauty and medley of cultures that is El Salvador.

There, on a Pacific coast pocket of land no larger than Maryland, visual treats include waterfalls curtained in ferns, deep blue lakes ringed volcanoes, mysterious ancient ruins, and unspoiled rural villages.

The people, handsome and enthusiastic, personify daily all that is implied by "simpatico."

EL SALVADOR is the smallest of the six Central American republics, yet the most densely populated. It is an energetic, progressive nation, more interested in the future than in the past. Latin, yes. But with a style of its own.

San Salvador, the modern capital, is worthy of a prolonged visit itself. The balmy weather, excellent hotels, splendid restaurants, cultural presentations and entertainment activities make it an ideal place to luxuriate.

But because of its central location, the capital is also a natural headquarters for the exploration-minded traveler — one-day round trips can be made to any of this captivating nation's many tourist attractions.

ONE POPULAR excursion for those who have only limited time here is to the mountain top park overlooking stark and awesome Izalco volcano. While the mileage isn't great, it becomes an all-day journey because the circuitous scenic route there and back is studded with several interesting stopping off places.

First comes unique Los Chorros Park with its series of spring-fed hillside pools and towering volcanic cliffs, draped with ferns and wild begonias. Natural waterfalls cascade into the terraced pools, which can be crossed via paths of huge stone slabs.

A TOUR COULD easily end at Los Chorros by spending the remainder of the day swimming and enjoying the lush foliage. Because it is only 15 miles from San Salvador, many visitors return to do just that.

El Salvador's most spectacular tourist development, Cerro Verde Park and Hotel de Montana, can be reached easily by mid-morning. This 20-room hostelry provides a close-up view of neighboring Izalco volcano, and a 60-mile panoramic vista of the countryside, extending all the way to the Pacific Ocean.

THE NEXT STOP is Lake Coatepeque, dominated by Izalco and Santa Ana volcanoes. The venerable Hotel del Lago offers open dining on a lakefront patio, surrounded by a beautiful garden and shaded by the rare amate tree. A luncheon treat is the hotel's hearty fresh crab soup.

Returning to San Salvador from the north, the traveler can be back at his hotel in time to enjoy a full evening of fun and excitement at the capital's superb restaurants, colorful nightclubs and swinging discotheques.

LOS CHORROS PARK is El Salvador's most popular recreation spot and lies only 15 miles from the capital city of San Salvador. A continuous flow of underground waterfalls feeds several terraced pools the year-around. Surrounded by tropical foliage, visitors can swim, picnic or simply stroll and admire the beautiful grounds. They'll find themselves in a country still largely undiscovered by the tourists.

Romance In Russia —

This is the love story of the Tartar prince, Boris Pirov, and the Jewess, Ronya von Glasman, told against the background of Imperial Russia in the 1880s.

The first years of their marriage are filled with trials and tribulations, government persecution of the Jews, temptations, adultery, and debauchery. . . a real Russian soap opera.

The Gypsy Queen Tamara covets anything her cousin Ronya has, including her husband. The crown covets her money and her land. Her father wants her marriage annulled. The Tartar Queen wants her son back.

The weather, the Gypsys, the Cossacks and the Tartars all contrive, at one time or another, to cause trouble.

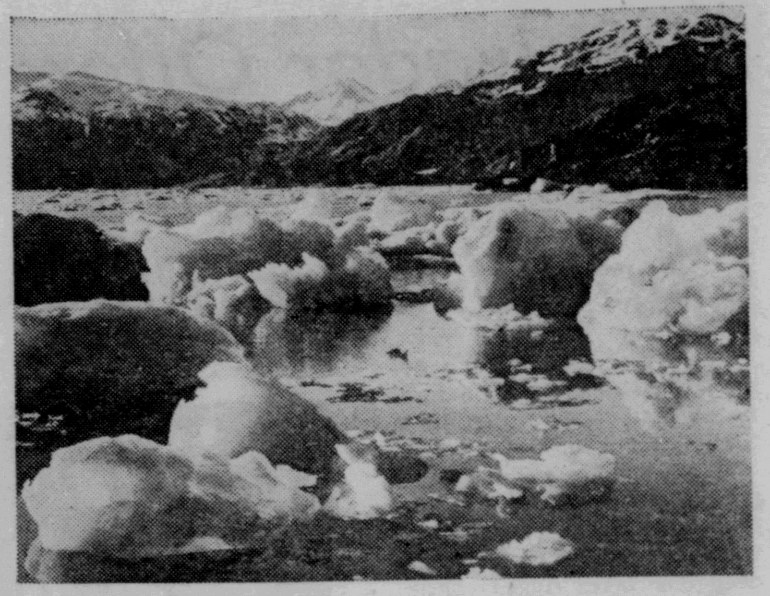
Through it all Ronya von Glasman Pirov is a tower of strength and wisdom, protecting her people in Kiev and ignoring all the insinuations of her husband's philandering. With whip in hand she beats off the worst that fortune can bestow.

It is to the author's credit that the reader continues to the end of the very long, detailed story to see what disaster is going to befall the Pirovs next.

Interwoven in the story are Gypsy superstitions and Jewish customs. The Orthodox Church spins its web around the Gypsies and all three are mingled in both the manor house and in Tamara's Gypsy camp, for by ancient imperial decree the Von Glasmans are eternally responsible for the welfare of both the Gypsies and the peasants on their lands.

It is rather unusual for a sequel to be set 20 years before the beginning of the original novel but such is the case here, for "The Eagle and the Dove" takes place before "The Candlestick and the Cross," Mrs. Solomon's first book.

Though she was born in Kiev, Russia, the author now lives in San Francisco.



THIS DAVE BOHN photograph of Alaska's Glacier Bay sparkling on a beautiful clear day is the cover illustration for "Glacier Bay: The Land and the Silence," the latest Sierra Club book to be published in paperback by Ballantine Books. The book not only depicts the beauty and tranquility of an awesome landscape, but also offers a strong argument for its protection against the increasing pressures of civilization. "All Glacier Bay is the great land, unique, wild, and magnificent," writes Bohn. "It should exist intact solely for its own sake." The paperback edition sells for $3.95.

Childhood Relived In Novel

"Secrets" is a strange and moving little book, a novel that obviously has a strong strain of autobiography in its makeup.

Drawing upon her own girlhood in the country just outside Boston, Miss Hale writes of those tender years and their nuances —the secrets and the fears, the triumphs and the disappointments, the companionship and the loneliness.

But her book does not end with these warmly nostalgic chapters. She follows her characters into adulthood. And demonstrates how, inevitably, we are molded to an almost inescapable degree by the experiences and surroundings of our earliest years.

From the fantasies of childhood come the realities of maturity. Whether those realities are haunting or happy ones depend very much upon the nature of the fantasies in which they are rooted.

Miss Hale's principal character is not the narrator, herself, but rather the neighboring Welch children who have figured prominently as well in her previous writing.

And it on how the four Welches, who reacted so differently to the strong but unaffectionate parental hand of their ambitious and unhumorous father that provides Miss Hale with the central thesis of her story. Royal and Jinny, the more rebellious of the four, fare the best in society. For Tom and May who yielded more compliantly to their father's autocracy and regimentation, adult life proves too much.

All, and the narrator and the little Irish girl who lived down the road, were shaped by the secrets they had shared as youngsters, and the manner in which they had protected and nourished those secrets from the invasions of the adult outsiders.

And by the measure in which they had experienced, not so much adult attention and discipline, as adult love, understanding and respect.

That is the point Miss Hale makes, particularly for parents, in this quickly read but not so quickly forgotten little book.

Playing The Game With Plastic

CREDIT-CARDMANSHIP by Martin J. Meyer; Farnsworth, 202 pages, $7.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

"The credit card is packaged affluence. Since this credit need cost you nothing, it's packaged affluence wrapped as a gift. But take the gift wrapping off, and what do you find? An exploding social atom bomb, leaving a fallout of inflation, strikes, recession, crime, social decay, debt addiction, bankruptcy, and the potential loss of your savings. The credit card has more impact on your life today than any social innovation of the 20th Century."

With these charges, financier and money-management expert Martin J. Meyer may have overstated his case. And his book, "Credit-Cardmanship," may be a bit too shrill and intemperate in its attacks upon those bits of plastic that bulge our wallets.

But, Meyer makes some points that are beyond dispute — except perhaps from within the industry, for after all even the cigarette has been defended by tobacco growers and processors — and demonstrates that, for all their convenience, credit cards are not an unmixed blessing.

Anytime a business man is squeezed into turning over a percentage of his "take" to an outside party — 5 per cent, we are told, in the case of bank-issued credit cards, 7 per cent for the so-called "travel and entertainment" cards —, then some one is going to have to take up the slack. And that some one is almost certain to be the consumer. Thus the charge that credit cards have been a major kactor in our inflationary spiral.

Meyer also provides documentation to varying degrees of his other accusations against the cards, not the least of which is his charge that this "easy credit" has fostered a chronic propensity for indebtedness among Americans.

But some of his most shocking material concerns the new kinds of crime that have arisen with the age of the credit card.

The theft of cards and their subsequent illegal use as well as the improper boosting of charges have reached dangerous dimensions, he claims. Finely printed disclaimers or limitations of responsibility from the card issuers sometimes leave the consumer holding the sack.

The controls over some card systems have been so loose, Meyer reports, that consumers have found themselves responsible for the extracurricular use of cards they never requested and never received — cards that were stolen while in the mails.

But perhaps the most alarming consequence of all from our increasing reliance upon credit cards, Meyer feels, is the contribution it makes to mankind's already considerable dependence upon that most impersonal product of our technology, the computer.

"The computer has not been tamed," Meyer advises, "and no matter how sophisticated it is, it's still fallible."

Anyone who has been caught up in the nightmare of negotiating with a computerized company for the correction of an erroneous bill or the delivery of undelivered merchandise will agree wholeheartedly with Meyer that the computer outdoes even man when it comes to "sheer muleheadedness" in the acknowledgement or correction of its mistakes.

The credit card, Meyer fears, is but a step along the path toward a checkless electronic system for the conducting of our business — a system that will leave the consumer completely at the mercy of the computer and devoid of influence with his retailer or his banker.

"The technology that will bring about the electronic nightmare world of the checkless society is available now, or is on the drawing board, or soon will be," claims Meyer. "Keep your eye on 1974."

Not all of Meyer's book is devoted to this gloomy picture of the credit card's impact, present and future. Resigned to the fact that the credit card, with all its repercussions, is here to stay, he offers the holder some counsel on how to get the most value from his, since, whether he uses it or not, he is ultimately going to have to stand part of its cost.

For instance, there are instructions on how to obtain the maximum period of free credit. This involves the holding, and juggling, of at least four cards with varying billing dates.

And the suggestion that the customer confront the storekeeper with this choice — to accept the credit card in full payment of the bill (but with the bank or other issuer of the card due its percentage) or to grant a discount and be paid in cash.

While such advice makes monetary sense, it also smacks of finagling, and one cannot help but be dismayed by a society that forces or encourages such tactics from the hard-pressed consumer.

And Meyer outlines — but does not recommend — other strategies which consumers have employed against the credit card companies that can only be considered dishonest.

Meyer's book seems to have some obvious flaws.

For one thing, he seems to have overestimated the universality with which credit cards are accepted by businesses, particularly overseas. His premise that one can make money off his credit cards by stretching out the interest-free period before payment comes due is based upon the assumption that the money will be resting in the interim in a savings account or in some other interest-paying investment whereas it is far more likely to be in the non-interest-paying checking account. In his discussion of alternative sources of credit, he neglects credit unions entirely.

More importantly, Meyer, to strengthen his case, has obviously given credit cards the benefits of no doubts and the brunt of every possible suspicion. It is, in short, a loaded book.

But it is nevertheless a worthwhile book that spotlights yet another dehumanizing instrument in a world that has become increasingly technologically oriented, leaving man with less and less control over his own day-to-day existence to say nothing of his destiny.

If the credit card system did not have its threatening side, Meyer would have been unable to say things like:

"But you don't pay (for your credit cards) only in money. You pay in mental strain, in lost dignity and, sometimes when your credit rating is unjustifiably ruined, in a blackened reputation that can follow you wherever there's a credit card computer for the rest of your days. That's almost everywhere. The credit card can not only booby trap your money. It can booby trap your life."

And finally: "The credit card and the computer are bringing you to the verge of a world in which just one electronic card will replace cash, checks and all other credit cards. . . They who control the card will therefore control you. And that single electronic card is on the drawing board right now. . .your ticket to a terrible, freedomless world of the future."

The Man Who Runs Chicago

By DON KEOWN

BOSS by Mike Royko; Dutton, 215 pages, $5.95.

America's big cities are in serious distress. There is no disputing this, as metropolis after metropolis reports itself in crisis and pleads for assistance from the federal government.

Yet there is a ray of hope in this bleak picture of municipal blight. And it lies in the caliber of the men who currently serve as mayors of these cities.

By and large, they are a good several cuts above the usual politician, more able, more progressive and more idealistic than, for instance, the men who sit in our statehouses or in our legislative halls. Indeed, as a group they outshine the federal bureaucracy.

So the leadership is there, if only it has not risen too late. often out of desperation, occasionally from enlightenment, city dwellers have at last turned their backs upon the old-style political hacks who, out of touch with contemporary reality, allowed the neighborhoods to become the disaster areas they are today.

The old-line political bosses are today an anachronism in American cities. . .with one major exception, Chicago.

There, like a feudal baron, still reigns one Richard J. Daley, ruling as absolutely as any Tweed or Pendergast.

There was a time when many separated Daley from these municipal tyrants of yesteryear. A despot, yes. But, they argued, a liberal-minded, socially-conscious, reforming despot.

But that veneer has long since faded. The events of 1968 gave it a final, ugly tarnish.

And if there are a few who still believe in the old image of a crusading Richard Daley, their gullibility cannot survive a reading of Mike Royko's hard-hitting book "Boss." Dealing as mercilessly with Daley as he does with his political foes, it puts a spotlight upon the mayor of Chicago that reveals him in all his arrogance and insensitivity. And his administration in all its greed, corruption and brutality.

Royko is the absolutely fearless daily columnist of the Chicago Daily News whose coverage of the 1968 Democratic National Convention and the attendant turmoil earned him the coveted Heywood Broun Award of the American Newspaper Guild.

He has been called "the best newspaper reporter in America," a claim based not upon any clever or flowery phrasemaking, but upon personal courage and integrity and a dogged determination in digging for the facts.

"Boss" exposes Richard J. Daley as the coarse, blatantly political animal that he is. No charge is made that Daley himself has dipped into the public till. Quite the contrary. Daley, Royko makes clear, is a man who revels, not in monetary wealth, but in power.

But to maintain himself in power he has utilized "a profiteering, corrupt political organization" that has ingratiated itself with the Chicago business establishment while continuing paradoxically to enjoy the support of the poor and of minorities whose interests it has neglected and even opposed.

Daley's pose as a progressive leader ended in the late 1960s when the tough-minded authoritarian determined to keep himself and his hack-ridden clique in office came to the forefront.

But Royko offers earlier clues that the Richard Daley before whom liberal Democrats often kowtowed and flattered was never the real Richard Daley — for instance in the scandal-ridden year of 1959 when the dishonesty so rife within his police department and within the Chicago governmental structure as a whole became shockingly obvious.

But Daley and his cronies have shown a remarkable ability not only to ride out crises, but often to feed upon them and to strengthen their grip upon the city.

Chicago's "boss" has proven a master at playing ethnic group off against ethnic group, encouraging old prejudices and hatreds. He has wooed the men who have counted, and has fooled those who have not.

He has enjoyed extraordinary press support for a Democrat, providing a dismal example of the failure of a city's newspapers to exercise their "watchdog" responsibilities. Chicago's press generally has followed the familiar theme of "what's good for business is good for Chicago," and has ignored the wheeling and dealing, the crookedness and the cruelty that flourished underneath the fragile outer shell of public improvements (for a price) and prosperity.

The level of Daley's politics was best symbolized, Royko feels, when from the floor of the 1968 Democratic National Convention, with a small war going on outside, Bull Connor, former Birmingham police chief and America's top racist symbol at the time, cast his vote for Richard J. Daley for vice president.

For those who defend Daley and his police for their conduct during that convention, outside and inside the hall, on the grounds they were subjected to extreme provocation from unruly agitators, Royko points out that the police had behaved just as badly, although on a smaller scale, during an earlier peace march without any such provocation. And by so doing earned Mayor Daley's commendation for that rehearsal for the later "police riot."

And Royko traces an evil pattern of corruption within a police department that, despite those festers, still felt itself qualified to serve as not only the arbiter of the morals of Chicagoans and their guests, but often also of their political convictions and social views as well.

Saddled too long with a Mafia-infested political machine that rewards mediocrity and overlooks or even encourages thievery and bribery, have Chicagoans at last reached the point of impatience where they are ready for a change? Do they share the rest of the nation's, and the world's, disenchantment with Richard Daley?

He concludes: " 'Chicago ain't ready for reform yet,' Alderman Bauler said when Daley was elected in 1955. And in 1970, ready or not, it wasn't getting any."

Daley apparently remains as firmly entrenched as ever in Chicago's graft-infested city hall, posing a real problem for those who like to claim that the American system of government is the best in the world. Then how do we explain our Richard Daleys?

CHICAGO'S Mayor Richard J. Daley was photographed in 1966 speaking on television to explain the court injunction his administration had obtained limiting civil rights marches in the city.

KENTFIELD publisher Newton K. Gregg has launched a new series of books in the handicrafts and hobbies field with a reprinting of the exhaustive "The Car-Builder's Dictionary."

The "car" in the book's title refers not to motorcars, but to railroad cars, And the book dates back to 1888 when it was published by The Railroad Gazette as a working manual at the behest of the Master Car Builder's Association which had launched the project in 1872 by setting up a committee "to publish an illustrated book, defining the proper terms or names of each and every part used in the construction of railway cars, and a description of the use of the same."

Gregg, Post Office Box 452, Kentfield, worked from the original copy in the University of Michigan Library in reprinting the book, more than 600 pages thick, profusely illustrated with drawings and photographs, complete to the advertisements, and a treasure trove of accurate and finely detailed information upon a facet of Americana that still fascinates many.

Pricing the book at $19.95 a copy, Gregg is aiming at model railroad builders, railroad historians and buffs, students of engineering and economics, reference libraries, etc.

DOUBLEDAY has published under the title "The Great New People" the travel letters of Englishman Charles Philips Trevelyan, written in 1898 during a tour of North America and the Pacific. The letters, by a man who later became a British Cabinet member, are regarded as classics in travel literature. As Leonard Woolf notes in his forward, Trevelyan wrote vivdly, with zest, intelligence and humor. He possessed, too, some strong opinions and did not hesitate to impart them as part of his impressions. The book is priced at $6.95.

IRVING STONE'S new biographical novel about Sigmund Freud, "The Passions of the Mind," is a Literary Guild spring selection.

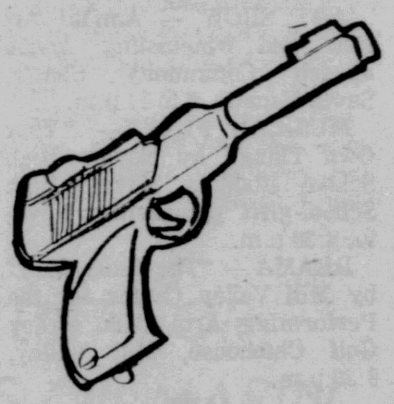
Sleuths & Suspense

A COAT OF BLACKMAIL by J. T. McIntosh; Doubleday, 164 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Mary Leydecker.

This delightful little mystery returns Hector Frayne, a former criminal whose hobby is giving advice to a Scotland Yard superintendent, and his irrepressible son, Ambrose, and French daughter-in-law, Dominique.

These zany but highly successful detectives get launched on a hunt for a murderer after the killing of a cabinet minister which took place exactly like an imaginary crime Hector had dreamed up.

It's obvious to Hector that someone has been into his files, and before he and the others are through, they have uncovered a set of criminals that are nuttier than the detectives and considerably more dangerous.



The story finally ends on an island where an unbelievalbe psychiatrist has a rest home for wealthy people who are only slightly more eccentric than the staff.

The plot is complicated to put it mildly, but somehow McIntosh makes everything come out evenly in the end.

We'll look forward to more stories of this delightful threesome.

"What Happened To The Lining Of My Sheepskin Jacket?"

Your sheepskin leather jacket is not exactly what it appears to be. The jacket is leather, all right. It is lined with sheep wool, as you thought. However, each is a separate item. The sheep wool is glued to a stay cloth which, in turn is glued to the leather. The adhesive used was soluble in drycleaning solvent. When the jacket was cleaned, large hunks of wool came loose and made your jacket lining appear to have the mange.

There is no way to repair the damage. There should have been a printed caution with the jacket warning against drycleaning.

Petunias Come In Many Colors

Petunias are one of the standout plants you can choose for the garden.

Even in poor soil, and in warm temperatures, they will grow and bloom freely. Given good soil in a flower bed, box or pot, they will respond with breathtaking beauty.

If you haven't shopped for petunias lately, you will be amazed at what's been happening in this colorful family. In addition to the time-honored single flowers, there are single flowering varieties whose petals are gracefully waved or ruffled, others that are more frilly — or fluted.

The cascade-types, a recent introduction, are huge in size — sporting single flowers that measure up to five inches.

If what plant hybridizers have developed, as to petunia types and flower forms, seems awesome, consider the color choices. Plantsmen have made it possible for you to enjoy an overwhelming array of colors.

To illustrate, there are myriad white performers, including the 1971 variety introduction — Apollo — a prolific single petunia. Then, another 1971 arrival is Chiffon Cascade, which sports huge single blooms in a lovely lavender-pink hue.

There are deeper shades — such as plum-colored Sugar Daddy or Nocturne, a double purple bloomer.

SHADES OF pink, rose, and red are multitudinous — too long a list to attempt to cover. Colors are also combined in exciting fashion: Astro is a single flower of pink and white, Crusader is a red and white petalled beauty, while Cherry Tart is a rose pink and white whose blooms resemble carnations.

THE SATELLITE petunia, seen here adding sparkle to a foundation setting, produces flowers with white, star-like markings on a bright rose background. (California Association of Nurserymen photo)

Best bet is to review all the petunia possibilities at your nursery. You will be pleased with all the choices, and can incorporate these easy-to-grow annuals throughout your garden — in sunny beds and borders, or tucked-in at random for accent.

The Soil Is The Thing

In gardening a good soil unlocks the door to success. Without it, little else avails.

And to be a good soil it should be crumbly, workable, fertile, well aerated, be moisture-retentive yet drain well, advise the garden experts of the Union Fork and Hoe Co.

Soils are classified as sandy, loamy or "clayey" by the size of the particles. Sandy soils warm up best in spring but water tends to run through them too readily and they dry out easily

TO REMEDY this shovel over it at least two inches of compost, peat or other organic matter and mix it in thoroughly the full depth of the spade or fork. This will greatly increase its water-holding capacity and supply food for the helpful bacteria needed to keep soil fertile

On the other hand, if the soil is "clayey," the looseness of the compost will greatly increase the drainage while also aiding the bacteria. Thus a two-inch layer of organic matter spaded in will again greatly aid soil composition and fertility.

Only a really good loam, which few Marin gardeners have, has little need of added organic matter. Yet, even there, it is well to dig some in every few years, for it tends to disappear

BUT, ORGANIC matter is not the whole story

A good garden soil also needs its chemical elements (especially nitrogen, phosphorus and potash) to be replenished from time to time Thus, each spring it helps to incorporate into the soil three to five pounds of a good, balanced fertilizer per 100 square feet as well as to hoe a little in around each plant or between the rows while your plants are growing.

In acid soil areas lime also plays an important part. A single soil test will usually show how much is needed. Frequently in such places about three pounds per 100 square feet is also helpful.

Finally, if none of these materials produce the desired pick-up in the plants, they may be suffering from a lack of trace elements, materials that need to be present in tiny amounts. These, too, can be purchased from the garden store and mixed thoroughly into the soil with a green thumb fork or spade.

Marin, blessed with a wonderful growing climate, is far less fortunate in its soils. Marinites often will find it not only helpful but essential to provide enrichment for their earth.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

✔ Avocado varieties are available that are adaptable to even our climactic region. Your nurseryman will offer the proper plant food for you to use.

✔ Tree roses are excellent accent plants for the garden — and now is an excellent time to plant them.

✔ Pick-up and destroy all camellia flowers which fall to the ground. These can harbor disease.

✔ For an Easter gift for loved ones, consider such plants as the rhododendron, the azalea or the chrysanthemum

A Desk That Takes No Space

Handyman's Pages

By STEVE ELLINGSON

There was a time when the housewife did not have to double as a bookkeeper.

But those days are gone. Not only must she wrestle today with budgetary problems complicated by the inflationary spiral, but often she must keep records that will be vital at tax-time as well.

As a result, a desk has become almost as useful in the home as it is in an office.

AND YET, THERE'S the space problem. Some homes simply do not have room for a standard desk. The work gets done on the dining room table. And that is far from ideal, for the record-keeper or for the furniture.

One answer is to construct your own hanging wall desk that you can use not only for the performance of your paper work, but for the orderly storage of your stationery supplies as well. It can be built in the kitchen, the den, the living room or even the bedroom. And the front folds up when not in use, so that there is no wasted living space

If the project appeals to you, send $1 to Steve Ellingson, San Rafael Independent-Journal Pattern Department, Post Office Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409, and ask for Hanging Wall Desk Pattern No. 176 Add 25 cents for air mail delivery

THE PATTERN IS full-size and can be traced on plywood

There's a list of the required materials, and there are easy-to-understand directions printed with each pattern.

The project is a simple one — and an inexpensive one as well

ACTRESS SHIRLEY PRICE demonstrates the utility of the Steve Ellingson developed build-it-yourself hanging wall desk that folds up when not in use and releases valuable home space for other purposes.

Storage For The Sportsman

The result is sometimes something more serious than just unsightliness.

Guns and other sporting equipment not securely stored away can be a temptation for small hands. And temptation can lead to tragedy.

THE AMERICAN Plywood Association has developed the design for the three-way sports cabinet shown at right. To build it, first send 25 cents to the American Plywood Association,, 1119 A Street, Tacoma, Wash., 98401, and ask for Three-Way Sport Cabinet Plan No. 65-350.

The versatile, eight-and-a-half-foot-tall cabinet can serve as a camping-hiking, or hunting-fishing cabinet, or as a general storage area for ski, golf, scuba and tennis gear.

Small accessories such as gloves and hats may be neatly attached to the inside of the door with a few spring clothes pins.

SHELVES, RACKS and drawers may be varied to accommodate canned goods, pots and pans, linens, cleaning and laundry supplies, paints, and carpentry and gardening tools.

There's a drop bar that keeps skis, poles, clubs and other long objects from falling forward when the door is opened, and thus makes the storing of large objects less hazardous.

Along with convenience and safety, the cabinet offers yet another bonus for the sportsman who takes pride in his equipment — it will keep the clubs, guns, fishing tackle, raquets, etc., in top condition.

A SOLUTION TO that problem that so often bugs the sportsman — a safe and convenient storage space for his equipment — is this cabinet that can be built by the home handyman with the help of an American Plywood Association plan.

A Touch of Elegance For Drab Rooms

Drab bathrooms and dreary kitchens can be given new life and elegance simply by customizing cabinets and walls with wood moldings.

Often old-fashioned kitchens or baths don't need major remodeling; or if they do, it may be too expensive for some budgets to finance.

In either case, just redecorating with wood moldings and imagination brings new personality and interest into the room — in styles ranging from Spanish to contemporary.

IT'S EASY TO decorate or redecorate plain cabinets by framing the door perimeters with plycap molding, which adds a decorative strip to the face of the cabinets and finishes the plywood door's sandwich-edge.

Another method is to edge doors with a lattice strip, then add a decorative panel molding to the face of the cabinets.

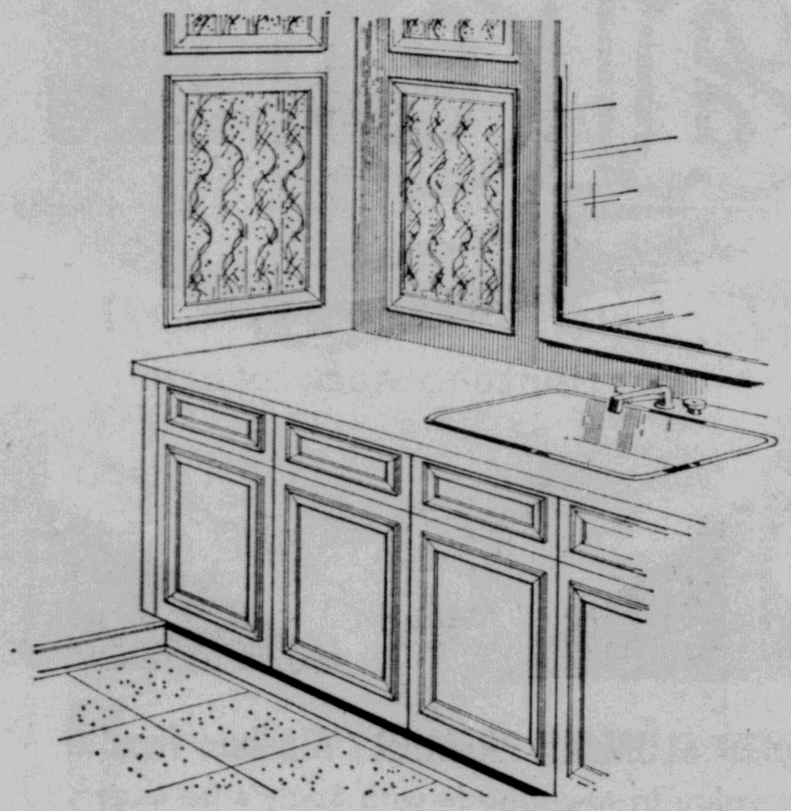
Flush cabinet doors also may be customized by applying a single rectangular frame of cap molding to the face of each door, positioning it according to the proportion of the door. In a bathroom, the design may be repeated on the walls, and interesting effects achieved by combining the framing with contrasting backgrounds of wallpaper.

DON'T OVERLOOK the ceilings when redecorating. Imaginative applications can bring life and interest to ceilings, using one or a combination of the many molding patterns available from lumber dealers.

Entry doors in kitchens and bathrooms also may be brightened with wood moldings. The strips can be stained to match the doors and applied in numerous combinations to simulate panels.

If the door is painted, a decorator touch may be achieved by painting the molding a lighter or darker shade of the door's color.

For an illustrated booklet of additional ideas on how to use western wood moldings, send 25 cents to Western Wood Products Association, Department M-4P, Yeon Building, Portland, Ore., 97204.



THE OWNER of an older home is likely to envy the occupants of newer dwellings most for their larger, more luxurious looking bathrooms. Yet a complete remodeling job can be an expensive undertaking. One alternative is a facelifting for the antequated bathroom that uses wood moldings. The moldings can be applied to flush cabinets and then repeated on the wall around the mirrors and the decorative wall covering, as shown above. The result is a touch of elegance and a contemporary look achieved at low cost. Building materials dealers carry wood moldings in a diversity of patterns.

LectraBed adjusts to you — to give your body maximum comfort for sleeping, reading, TV watching, letter writing, sewing, hobby work, so many other things! All you do is press a button (on the palm-sized control at your side) for head-up position, feet-up position, combination head and feet-up position or level position. Built like the couches astronauts use, LectraBed will contour to the natural curves of your body and adjusts smoothly to the exact position you choose.

Shown is the 80" long twin size with medium firm mattress. Pivoted headboard brackets are available to permit two twin beds to be joined, yet swing apart for linen changes.

TV NOTES

By JACK GAVER

Revision, soap opera division, NBC: "Another World—Bay City," daytime drama serial, has reverted to its original title, "Another World." A relative, "Another World—Somerset," has become, simply, "Somerset."

The American Broadcasting Companies, Inc., and Associated Television Corporation, Ltd., have formed a company to produce and distribute video cassette programming covering educational, industrial and specialized home entertainment.

Here's an idea to help bolster the weak dramatic area of the television networks: On the agenda of the American Shakespeare Festival Theater in Stratford, Conn., this summer is what may be a once-in-a-generation revival of Eugene O'Neill's marathon play, "Mourning Becomes Electra," considered by many to be his finest work. Record a performance on tape, broadcast it next season, probably in two parts on successive nights. It's such a logical and comparatively inexpensive thing to do. Which is why television probably won't do it.

Ed McMahon will be the master of ceremonies and Anita Bryant the special guest star when NBC airs the finals of the America's Junior Miss Pageant from Mobile, Ala., May 1.

Singer Tony Bennett's recent concert with the London Philharmonic Orchestra in the British capital was filmed and will be broadcast as a video special, first in Britain, then in the United States and elsewhere.

Judy From Carnegie, St. Paul's, And a Celebration In East Harlem

By JOHN SUNIER

Judy Collins has a new one and it's a beauty.

"Whales & Nightingales" (Elektra EKS-75010) was taped in many different acoustic environments, including Carnegie Hall, in a loft, off the coast of Bermuda and in St. Paul's Cathedral where the reverberation is really ethereal. Also ethereal are the voices of actual humpback whales heard on "Farewell to Tarwathie."

There are the expected Jacques Brel songs, one each of Joan Baez and Pete Seeger, and two simple and lean American classics, "Simple Gifts" and "Amazing Grace."

TOM PAXTON is another singer of grace and great taste. His Elektra album, EKS-74066, is titled simply "Tom Paxton 6" and backs up the performer with keyboards and rhythm section deftly handled. "Forest Lawn" is a bit of black humor, "Crazy John" is dedicated to John Lennon, and "Angeline is Always Friday" a touching love song.

This is a welcome continuation of Paxton's consummate creations in song form.

"U" is the short and concise title of the new two-LP package from Mike, Robin, Rose and Licorice — otherwise known as The Incredible String Band. This was the music from a song and dance epic which the ISB staged live with a theater group, and whatever happened visually, the music is completely enchanting. Many off-beat old instruments are heard again in the String Band's arrangements, and the problems of intonation — both vocal and instrumental — heard in some of the earlier albums seem to be solved here. "The Juggler's Song," and "Rainbow" were my favorites, but all four sides are just a treasure.

Anyone wanting just plain beautiful music to float around and through them rather than being forced in via electronic pressures will groove with this transcendent creation.

"THE DOORS — Absolutely Live" (Elektra EKS-9002) is a two-LP package assembled from in-person appearances around the U.S. by the top rock group. The only really new item is the full musical production of Jim Morrison's "Celebration of the Lizard," which turns out to be rather dated poetry-and-jazz and taking up most of one of the four sides. A Doors medley includes "Alabama Song," "Backdoor Man," "Live Hides" and "Five to One." "When the Music's Over" is another oldie in live version.

JUDY COLLINS
The whales are heard

The performances are nearly all inferior to the studio versions already available, but Doors fans will surely have to have this one anyway for its live excitement.

"Love Revisited" (Elektra EKS-74058) brings back some of the best work of the L.A. rock group of five or six years ago that changed direction and personnel frequently but was one of the most important rock groups of that time. Remember "My Little Red Book," "Hey Joe," or "She Comes in Colors"? Love still sounds top-drawer and not that dated either, so they must have been doing the right thing.

A RATHER loose and relaxed musical celebration is "The Voices of East Harlem" (ELektra EKS-74080). This is a large group of voices both young and old, backed by a small but vociferous rhythm section and spotlighting a featured soloist on each tune. Soul, gospel, African influences are prominent in this free-swinging and gutsy music that runs the gamut from "Proud Mary" to the wild free-for-all "Shaker Life," which seems to put the listener in the middle of the sanctified church service at its swingingest.

The East Harlem Youth Federation is benefited by sales of this album and it's mightily exciting listening in the bargain.

Jan Murray Enjoys The Laughs

Only one of the automobiles belongs to him. The remainder are the property of his wife and youngsters.

Jan and his wife Toni live in a typical California house surrounded by flowers, shrubbery and blooming trees the year around. It has five bedrooms and a swimming pool.

But inside one has the feeling of stepping into a New England home. When the family moved west from Rye, N.Y., four years ago all the furnishing and adornments collected over 20 years came along too.

Murray's house, though large, is filled to overflowing with Celia, 20, and Howard, 19, both college students who live at home, and Diane, 16. An older son from a previous marriage, Warren, is a comedy writer and visits his father regularly.

Family includes a 12-year-old poodle named Maynard and a young basenji, a barkless African breed.

Every day when he's at home Murray plunges into the pool which is just outside his bedroom. In cold weather or rain he dons a rubber frogman-type suit and dives in.

Saturdays the comedian devotes to golf, usually at Brentwood County Club where he is a member. Secretive about his handicap, Jan's foursome usually includes Joey Bishop, Buddy Hackett and Gary Morton, Lucille Ball's husband.

Murray spends most of his off-time and evenings reading biography, fiction and history. His library is one of the best stocked in the movie-television community.

He also is one of the happiest sons-in-law in town. Toni's mother lives at the house and is, by Jan's account, the finest cook in California. He is essentially a steak and potato man, but fancy dishes are the order of the day when the Murrays entertain.

Sunday dinners are an important family tradition and are frequently expanded to include close friends.

Murray is gradually making the transition from stand-up comedian to dramatic actor. In recent months he has played the heavy in episodes of "The Name of the Game" and "Love, American Style."

Earlier he starred with Jerry Lewis in "Which Way to the Front,"

He makes frequent appearances for charitable causes and one-nighters just to keep in touch with the business of making people laugh, a business he enjoys as much as his audiences.

Marin Poets' Corner

SPRINGTIME

Bright greens in the pines,
Grass in the fields,
A few wild flowers,
Here and there,
Verdant growth
Both anew,
Efflorescence,
South to north,
Changing climes,
Entities of other life,
Nodes of the sun,

POINT REYES — C. B. GEARHART

SPRING

The apple trees all covered with blossoms,
The wheat fields carpeted in emerald green,
The endless freshness of each early morn,
The golden haze of the afternoon sun,
The lilac bushes with their purple flowers,
All add up to:

LOUISA M. BURGER — POINT REYES

MARIN IN SPRING

The hikers hike —
Marin's covered by bikes,
The bays covered with
Sails of white. Hip, Hip,
Birds in flight.
